The French Troops tried for several years to break in the Vernadeau Stronghold and in the early part of 1735 The Royal troops were sent with battern rams and other items used in that time and broke in the Vernadeau Stronghold.All that was in it then was Jeans grandfather with his family and his father with his family and they divided up thier gold and tried to escape.Jean and his family escaped and it is not known how many more escaped,But today there is a Vernadeau living in France but he cannot trace his family back only to 1858 so it is thought that his ancestor escaped and left France and one of his grandchildren came back to France in 1858,because he considers the Province of Limousin and the city of Limoges as his ancestral home.

Most records during that time were destroyed but as the Abbey of Saint Leonard was near by the Vernadeau Stronghold it is thought that Leonard name was taken from there.I wrote to them there but as in other places records were destroyed.The rolls of the Bolbonne Abbey is near by and they had on the rolls of a Roger De Vernejol in 1282,later the name is written as Varnajol and Varnajo in the Bishopric of Limoges in 1455 a Amelius Vernhaudi is found,some fragments of data have been found but since orthography or spelling is not fixed the spelling is uninportant,only the sound in old French of that day and place would count as proof.

My sister was with her husband in the service and she visted all the old places but the site where the Vernadeau stronghold was supposed to be is all grape orchards now,she couldnt get any real data that we could say was real proof.

France lost most of thier old records during the religious conflict,Some of the Huguenots were able to take some of thier records with them when they fled France.It is known that more than 50,000 Protestants were driven from France but no count can be made of those that were killed.

History Explains it better than I can but all protestants to stay in France would have to denounce thier religion join the catholic church and bring up thier children as catholics.

There is an old record found that one of Jeans brothers Ozias de la Vernade founded a branch of the family in Picardy by marrage with a Jacqueline d'Ailly but I could not find any other information about this family maybe they were killed off like the rest.'

HERLONG CEMETERY

This cemetery's earliest marked grave is in the early 1870's. The cemetery is located on the Brandywine Road in County District 5, across from the property of Robert Isaac (Ike) Price, a descendant of the Herlong family.

Here is a picture from an old newspaper clipping (Port Gibson Reveille from the 50's) of the symbol used on many graves throughout Claiborne County, not necessarily Presbyterian. The caption reads, "the familiar pointing hand motif associated with the steeple of the First Presbyterian Church of Port Gibson."
Such a motif (without the wreath) is found on the grave marker of David Herlong.

HERLONG CEMETERY'S HOLLOW TOMBSTONE

In Herlong Cemetery in Claiborne County, Mississippi, there is a very unusual tombstone, or more precisely, monument, because although it gives the appearance of being made of stone, this memorial is actually made of metal. More than 100 years old, the marker is still in excellent condition. It marks the resting place of George Washington Johnston (Mar. 23, 1819 – Feb. 9, 1901) and his wife Colen/Colon (June 9, 1837 – Dec. 25, 1903). G. W., as he was known, was a Confederate veteran of the siege of Vicksburg, and he is believed to have had children by three wives, the last of which was Colon Brinson Holder. Lying beside them, with a traditional stone marker, is their blind teenage daughter Susan who died in 1882.

The Johnston marker is unique to this cemetery and is fairly rare. Although such monuments are found in every state in the Union, there are relatively few of them since they were only made in this country for about forty years, beginning in 1873. For some reason, the metal tombstones never became popular though they were easily accessible and affordable, even being sold in the Sears & Roebuck catalog. Some cemeteries banned their use, however, thinking them inferior. But unless their foundations were improperly laid, most of these markers are in better shape today than their stone counterparts.

The monuments, called "White Bronze," for commercial appeal, are actually made of molded, pure zinc panels, bolted together. Over the years, these "tombstones" weather in the elements, gradually forming a tough shell of zinc carbonate. This aged patina is what gives the markers their lovely blue-gray color.

The consumer of that day could choose from many different symbols, sculptures, panels, and shapes. Popular motifs were angels, sheaves of wheat, wreaths, etc. Prices ranged from a few dollars for a simple panel to thousands of dollars for a large, elaborate monument; but overall, they were very reasonably priced.

The Johnston monument in Herlong Cemetery must have been of great interest to the rural community at the turn of the century, few having seen such a remarkable thing. The local children soon found out that, because it was hollow, it would give out a mighty bong when struck with a rock or stick.

When my grandmother Eunice Geneva Furr Jones (1894 - 1987),a native of Claiborne County, was a small girl of about nine or ten years old, she and her family lived on her grandfather Isaac Furr's place, less than a mile from the Herlong Cemetery. Christmas was coming, and her father, William Preston Furr, said that he had money for only one saddle for his three older children to have to ride their horses. He said that he had determined that he would give it to the one brave enough to walk to Herlong Cemetery in the dark and rap loud enough on the hollow metal tombstone to be heard back at the house. Eunice had two brothers older than she - Herman, about fourteen and Sidney, about twelve. The boys were not up to the task, but young Eunice was, and won the much-desired saddle by making the spooky trip and accomplishing the eerie task. The resounding, vibrating voice of the tomb was heard by the entire family, and she won her saddle, much to the chagrin and embarrassment of her brothers. This action, though insignificant, was prophetic of her ninety-three years of life, full of courage, determination, and true grit.

Thomas and Anne Brownell were the first members of the Brownell family to emigrate to America. Most Brownells in the United States and Canada are descended from them. John Hughes, Sr.
b. bef. 1732 -- needs further study
d. Jul. 7, 1791, Greene Co TN

+Sarah, d. aft. 1795

- Aaron Hughes

John's will left his estate to his wife, Sarah, and, upon her death, to their son, Aaron Hughes. The will does not list other children. Other documents do, however, indicate a relationship to two other children, who could have been either siblings or cousins. Those two persons are as follows:

- Margaret Hughes
- Francis Hughes

Early Tennessee histories seem to link an addition person to John and Sarah Hughes. A man named John Hughes claimed that he was the brother of Francis of Greene County. This John Hughes completed a Revolutionary War pension application at the age of 80 on Sep. 5, 1832. The application states that he lived in Burke County, North Carolina, at enlistment. The application also states that he later lived in Blount Co TN, before finally settling in McMinn Co TN. If he were the son of John and Sarah Hughes, he would be listed as follows:

- John Hughes, Jr., b. abt. 1752, d. aft. 1832

A man named Francis Hughes and a man named Thomas Hughes fought in the same regiment from North Carolina during the Revolutionary War. A document called Pierce's Register lists both names on page 191.

The relationship of John and Sarah Hughes to Margaret, Francis, John and Thomas Hughes bears further study.

John Hughes lived and owned land in Frederick County (later organized as part of Shenandoah County), Virginia. He sold land there in 1768, but it is not presently known when John and his wife moved to Greene County Tennessee. Kay White has suggested that they may have lived in Burke County, North Carolina, prior to living in Tennessee.

Col. Daniel Kennedy, husband of Margaret Hughes, was the executor and witness of the will of John Hughes. His service as executor tends to refute other histories, which have argued that Margaret was the daughter of Francis Hughes, who was born earlier in this line in 1697.

"Other Hughes of interest who may or may not be related to this family are:

(1) Andrew, James and Edward Hughes who are on the 1783 Greene Co. Tax List

(2) Thomas & David Hughes who along with our Francis are listed in White's "The Kings Mountain Men" as early Watauga settlers & who were with Sevier at Kings Mt. (This Thomas Hughes is quite likely the Thomas found serving in the same company with our Francis.

David Hughes was pensioned in Sullivan Co., TN in 1833 at the age of 82 (born c1751) - we need to have a look at his pension application!!"

Notes on Davis in-laws:

William H. Davis, Nancy A. Davis, and Mary "Polly" Davis were siblings of Patience Davis. William H. Davis married Susannah Hixson. Nancy A. Davis married Andrew Hixson. Susannah Hixson and Andrew Hixson were siblings to the two Hixson brothers, Timothy Springfield and William, who had two Hughes brides, Rebecca and Ingebo. Mary Polly Davis. b. Notes on Alexander in-laws:

Mary "Polly" King Alexander, Stephen K. Alexander, and William King Alexander were daughter and sons of William Alexander and Elizabeth King. This William Alexander was b. abt. 1733, Pennsylvania. He married Elizabeth King Dec. 9, 1762. She was b, Jun. 17, 1737, Pennsylvania, and d. Jul. 20, 1817, Tennessee. Elizabeth King was the daughter of Thomas King, Sr. (b. abt. 1695, Londonderry, Ireland, d. bef. 1764, Lancaster Co PA) and Jane Sharp (b. abt. 1699, Scotland), who were married abt. 1715, Lancaster Co PA.

Notes of Daniel Kenndy, shared from research of Kay White:

"In 1774, a Daniel Kennedy served in Lord Dunmore's War as a private in the company of Captain Evan Shelby - it is believed that this was our Daniel as family tradition claims that he served in this war under Shelby. In 1776 he aided in the defense of the Watauga Fort (then NC, now TN) when it was attacked by the Cherokee Indians. He enlisted on 1 Jan 1777 and served as a Sgt. in Capt. John Asby's Co. (also designated as Capt. Valentine Peyton's Co.) of the 3rd Virginia Regiment.

"Historians, in general, state that he migrated to the vicinity of Milburnton, TN (then Washington Co., NC) in 1778, the date of his first land entry, however, at that time he had cleared acreage and two houses on this land which would indicate an earlier migration and it is evident that he was in the Watauga area in 1776.

"Daniel's first land grant for 394 acres was entered on 22 July 1778 'on the head of the Mill Fork of Lick Creek' in Washington Co., NC (North Carolina Grant #328); on 10 Aug 1779 he entered 120 acres adjoining his land (North Carolina Grant #388).

"Prior to 1783, when he appeared on the Greene Co., TN tax list, he had removed to a large tract of land about six miles southeast of Greeneville, TN at the mouth of Camp Creek on the Nolichucky River and this homestead remained in the family for over a hundred years.

"Referred to as the "Father of Greene County", much has been written about Col. Daniel's involvement in the politics of this area and about his military career (see sources). He served in many campaigns under Col. John Sevier, including the Battle of King's Mountain, at which time he was promoted to Captain;

"... he was an interpreter at the Dumplin Creek Treaty after which he was commissioned Colonel; he was a conservative, rather than radical, supporter of the State of Franklin and prominent in that movement (Sevier appointed him a Brigadier General for the State of Franklin in May 1785 however, and perhaps because the State of Franklin did not materialize, it appears that Daniel and his family preferred the title of Colonel);

"...he was Clerk of the Greene County Court and was a trustee of Washington and Greeneville Colleges; in addition to large land holdings, he owned a tannery, an iron works, and a number of slaves."

"The Kennedy's were Scotch-Irish Presbyterians. In Greene Co TN, they were affiliated with the Zion Presbyterian Church. This church stood located just south of the Kennedy homestead, which was just south of the Nolachukey River and across the Old Jonesboro Road from where Camp Creek joins the Nolachukey. A grandson of Daniel Kennedy is believed to have built the house now on the site. This house faces Jonesboro Road.

"Col. Daniel Kennedy's earmark was a single crop of the right ear and a slit in the left ear."

From Goodspeed's Hisory of Greene County, 1887:

"Daniel Kennedy came in 1779, and located on the river four miles east of Greenville, at the mouth of Holley Creek. He was one of the most prominent pioneers of the State, and deserves to rank with Sevier, Shelby and Cocke.

"He was chosen clerk of the county court upon the organization of the county, and continued to hold it under four successive changes of government, a sufficient proof of his integrity and worth.

"He was an ardent support of the State of Franklin, and was an active participant in the convention which founded it. He was also elected a brigadier-general of the Franklin militia."

Daniel Kennedy as Daniel Kennedy III:

"Daniel Kennedy III was the son of Daniel, II of Frederick, now Berkley Co., VA. this Daniel was the son of Daniel Kennedy of ? Scotland. Daniel the 1st was a Jacobite and was captured at Preston. He was transported against his will from Liverpool Liverpool in the Godspeed 28 July 1716, arrived in Maryland, Oct. 1716. Indentured to John Courts, MD 18 Oct. 1716.

"Daniel the 2nd, was apparently married more that once as I am descended from Col. Daniels 1/2 sister Elizabeth from his 1st marriage, but lack details. "

--Don R. Baker, Hughes Genforum post, Dec. 17, 1998

"Daniel Kennedy - Scottish Rebell was transported to America on the Ship Good Speed on the 18 Oct 1716. Daniel was purchased by John Courts of Anne A. MD. Does any Kennedy researcher have proven descent from this Daniel or even "a theory" of descendency from him.

"The rebels were sold by the factor of Messrs. Richard Guildard & Company to serve a term of 7 years. Other Rebell's purchased by John Courts were: Patt McKoy, Angus McDormott. Some of the Rebels were purchased by those who were sympathetic to the Stuart cause, and planned on immediately setting them free."
--Jayne McCarley, Hughes Genforum post, Feb. 16, 1999

Francis Hughes
b. 1749 [2], 1758 [3], or 1759 [7], possibly born in Frederick County (organized in 1772 as Dunmore County, which was renamed Shenandoah County in 1778), Virginia
d. Jan. 25, 1841, Greene County

+Rebecca Allen, d. bef. Jan 25, 1841

- Margaret Hughes
- John Hughes
- Rebecca Hughes
- Ingebo Hughes
- Clarissa Hughes
- Hardeman (Hardy) Hughes

One hypothesis holds that Rebecca Allen, b. abt. 1760, was the daughter of Rueben Allen and Ingabo Byrd, although this must be tested and documented. See Allen precursors.

Some uncertainty exists over the birth date of Francis Hughes, as shown by the notations above. Data from these sources as a whole, however, do portray the same man named Francis Hughes. Birth dates for the children of Francis, as listed below, are from a genealogy which uses the 1749 date.

If Francis were born in 1758 or 1759, then estimates for the birth dates for these children should be moved from the 1760's to the 1770's. The 1759 birth date comes from the pension application of Francis Hughes, and currently seems to this author be the correct date.

At least one source claims that Francis Hughes had a second marriage, though no name of a second wife is known. A woman named Mary Ann "Dolly" Miller, the wife of Thornton Miller, claimed that she was a half-sister to John Hughes, the son of Francis Hughes and Rebecca Allen. As Kay White has noted,

> "Francis, in his will, listed ALL of his living legal heirs - IF Mary Ann was living at the time of the Will (1841), she was not his daughter, although she could have possibly been a step-daughter - IF she was deceased at that time, the possibility of either does exist - this bears further study." [12]

Francis without a will:

"Francis Hughes did not leave a will. The document referred to as a will was actually a court declartion made by Francis' children. They went to court to swear that they were the only living, legal heirs in order to collect their father's pension. It is known that they did not include a half sister, Mary Ann (Polly) Hughes who married Thornton Miller."
--Jeanne Bowman Overbay, Feb. 26, 2000

Francis Hughes is documented in Revolutionary War Soldiers of Western North Carolina, [7], as follows:

Summary of Early Life

Francis Hughes was born in Shenandoah County, VA in the year 1759. At the beginning of the Revolutionary War, he was living in Western Burke (then Rowan) County, NC. He later was "unsettled", but apparently was residing in the Watauga area of east Tennessee, then North Carolina.

Summary of Partisan Activity

Francis Hughes first entered military service in Burke County, NC in June 1776. He served as a ranger on the western Catawba Frontier, scouting against the hostile Cherokee and Creek Indians. He served in Capt. Penland's Company. In August 1776, Hughes joined up with Rutherford's troops and took part in the Cherokee Expedition of August-October 1776, In his pension declaration, he mentions an engagement in which eighteen Indians were killed.

In January 1777, he enlisted in Col. John Seviers Regiment. Their purpose was to clear the Watauga Settlements from Indian incursions. He helped to erect and and garrison a fort on the Nolachukey River (at Gallaker's orGallagher's).

In September 1780, Hughes volunteered under Col. Sevier (Capt. Samuel William's Company) and took part in the great King's Mountain Expedition of September and October 1780. The march culminated in the American Victory at King's Mountain, SC on October 7, 1780.

His final tour of duty was for a period of one month under Col. Sevier. This consisted of a short march to Cherokee country and back.

Summary of Later Life

Francis Hughes apparently moved from Burke County, NC to Watauga some time during the war... He was in Greene Co TN, by 1782.... He continued to reside in East Tennessee for the remainder of his life.

On July 21, 1833, as a resident of Greene County, TN, age 74 years, he applied for a Federal pension. He was awarded an annual pension of $51.66. In his pension application children are mentioned, but not by name. (See below).[6]

Francis Hughes died January 25, 1841... while residing with his daughter Margaret in Bledsoe County, TN. His wife predeceased him. His heirs were as follows: John Hughes, Margaret Hughes, Ingabow Hixon and Rebecca Hixon.

Francis Hughes pension record, as documented by Descendants of John Hewes, privately published by Eben Putanm, New York, 1913, Call Number Cs71.H892:

"Francis Hughes was of Green County, Tenn., 21 July, 1833, then aged 74 years, when he applied for pension, alleging that he resided in Burke County, N. C., in June, 1776, when he enlisted as a ranger in North Carolina, under Capt. Penland, in the command of Gen. McDowell, and served two months and a half against the Cherokee and Creek Indians.

"On his return from this tour of service, he met the troops under Gen. Rutherford on their march to the Cherokee Nation, and volunteered under Rutherford. The expedition proceeded to the "Nation." In the overhill towns the Indians embodied, and an engagement ensued in which the Indians were defeated with a loss of 18 killed. This tour of service lasted from August, 1776, to December, 1776, four months.

"In Jan., 1777, he volunteered under Col. John Sevier to retake the western settlements on the Watoga. Seviers' force was employed in building a fort for defense at "Gallaker's" on "Nola Sheeky" river, in the present State of Tennessee. Hughes was stationed there for twelve months.

"Under the Act of North Carolina calling for new levies, he volunteered in Sept., 1780, for an expedition, under Col. Sevier, against Ferguson. He was in Capt. Samuel Williams' company and marched with Campbell's Virginia troops across the "Yellow Mountains" into North Carolina, and there met the militia under General McDowell, and in October was present at the battle of King's Mountain.

"After the battle he helped guard the prisoners on the march to the "Barrix" for exchange, serving three months. In the winter of 1780 he again volunteered and was led by Col. Sevier against the Cherokee Indians and marched to the borders of their country, but the Indians had retired. He was one month in this service. His total service was 21 months and 14 days.

"He was born in Shenandoah County, Va., in 1759, and had lived in Washington County, afterward in Green County. He was living in 1839. "

Francis Hughes may have used his Revolutionary War service to qualify for work as a ranger, as noted in the following passages from Goodspeed's History of Greene County, 1887:

> "In 1783, the General Assembly of North Carolina passed an act dividing Washington County for the second time, and establishing the county of Greene. On the third Monday of August, the court of pleas and quarter sessions met at the house of Robert Carr, which stood near to what is known as the Big Spring in Greeneville.

"The magistrates present were Joseph Hardin, John Newman, George Doherty, James Houston, Amos Bird and Asahel Rawlings. Daniel Kennedy was elected clerk; James Wilson, sheriff; William Cocke, attorney for the State; Joseph Hardin, Jr., entry taker; Isaac Taylor, surveyor, Richard Woods, register, and Francis Hughes, ranger."

> "In May, 1785, the county was reorganized under the State of Franklin, and all the officers who were reappointed were required to take a new oath of office. The magistrates who appeared and qualified were Joseph Hardin, George Doherty, Benjamin and John Gist, Newman, Asabel Rawlings, John Maughon, James Patterson, John Weir and David Craig.

"The old county officers were removed except Daniel Kennedy, clerk and Francis Hughes, ranger. The county, as a whole, was the most loyal to the Franklin government of any of the counties composing the State, and jealously guarded against anything tending to weaken its influence or authority."

Land Grant Records for Francis Hughes are as follows: [5]

1. Washington Co., TN NC Grant #262 - 99 acres - Oct 24, 1782. Watauga Bk. 252
2. Washington Co., TN NC Grant #362 - 99 acres - 24 Oct, 1782. Bk 1 p. 567 - probably same grant as #1.
3. Greene Co., TN NC Grant #1115 - 640 acres - 12 July 1793. Bk 6 p. 463

The third record above is known to be for land on the Mill Fork of the Big Limestone Creek, Greene Co TN.

Kay White shared the following description of the life of John Hughes:

"John Hughes, the son of Francis Hughes (c1759/1841) was born in 1779. His father opposed his marriage to Jane Skiles... and they had their first two children prior to being married at some time after 1800 & before 1809 in the home of a man on the Middle Cumberland. They returned to Greene Co and then removed to Hamilton Co TN.

"There, John had over 800 acres in the Bakewell, TN area. He took over a 640 acre tract at Opposum Creek that had been lost by Robert Patterson in litigation and finished paying for the land in 1830.

"He moved into the old home of Patterson, said to be the first residence built by a white settler in Hamilton Co. This log home was sold in the 1870's to Absalom Selcer and was later occupied by his daughter, Elizabeth, and her husband, Gilbert Vandergriff.

"John owned 14 slaves at the time of the 1840 census and in 1840 he sold a slave named Jane to Dr. William E. Kennedy of Chattanooga for $411 (the son of Allen Kennedy who was the son of Col. Daniel & Margaret (Hughes) Kennedy). He set up a burial ground on his property and the family followed the old Welch custom of erecting bench tombs over the crypts.

"He resided many years before and after the Civil War on the north side of the old trace to Chickamauga Creek. John died on Mar. 15, 1871, and Jane died abt. 1869. There is monument in Bakewell Cemetery, Bakewell, TN placed there by David H. Graves in 1988 which lists the birth & death dates for John & Jane and the names and most of the dates for their children. It is also inscribed as follows:

'In this cemetery lie the remains of John Hughes, Jane Hughes & their daughter, Nancy Hughes Hixson. Pioneer settler John Hughes founded the Bakewell community and the original church and school. He donated land for the church, for the school and the R/W for the Southern Railway through Bakewell'."

+Margaret Duff[24]The following profile, which was originally published in The Chattanooga Times. Although the date of publication was cut off from the source article, it was written byClarence Cook with a copyright of 1926. The article accompanies a portrait sketch signed by Leo Hershfield.

"By the Cow Camp Waters of Opossum Creek, to the westward of the Spanish oak, in the township of Flat Top, in the month of December, 1824, was born Francis Hughes, centenarian patriarch of the mid-plateau country of Walden's Ridge.

"In the cabin of his father, by the laurel-shaded mountain stream, Francis Hughes dwelt for three-score and ten years. Here to Margaret Duff Hughes were born fourteen children, and today the names of more than 100 grandchildren and great-grandchildren, even unto the fifth generation, are recorded on the family scroll.

"Francis Hughes, of Flat Top, is a man of the mountains. His forehead records the grooves of the years; his body the strength of the oak, and his mind the accumulated knowledge of a vanished race.

"Philosopher and prophet, Francis Hughes is the living symbol of an age beyond memory's call, of a period when the proud Cherokee swarmed the hills, and to bring in the skin of an 800-pound bear was all in a day's work.

"Francis Hughes' rule of life is to do well the work of today, for in so living no fear exists for the morrow; to live moderately, avoid excesses in all things; to be tolerant and judge not lest ye be judged.

"Francis is a Methodist and a Whig. He says, 'Other folks call me a republican,' but, 'I'm a Whig, and I'm proud of it'.

"The centenarian of Flat Top is a lover of good horseflesh and for many years has raised blooded stock on his mountain pastures. Clothed in homespun garments made from the wool of the sheep of the plateau, Francis Hughes daily rides his roan over the mountains in the transaction of his business, and he sits on his horse like a man a quarter of his years.

"In the veins of Francis Hughes flows the blood of aristocratic England, of a "younger son," who settled first in Virginia, coming later to Kentucky and thence to the mountains of East Tennessee.

"The old home property of Francis Hughes is held under a grant from the state of Tennessee, authorized by the general assembly of 1825, and taken in the name of his father, John Hughes. These records are carefully preserved in the family archives and have been thoroughly gone over by the write. The description of the property being set out in the grant as 'bounded on the north by a Spanish oak, on the Cow Camp Waters of Opossum Creek'.'

Comments of the above profile of Francis Hughes of Flat Top, Tennessee:

"The info that I mentioned is from an article that I found in a Knoxville library file...

"It first appeared to me that Margaret Duff was the wife of Francis but, although I still 'think' so, after repeated reading, I can't be 100% certain that Cook wasn't referring to the mother of Francis.

"Cook refers to Francis as the 'centenarian patriarch of the mid-plateau country...' and there is no doubt that he is writing of [a] man who is living at the time -- Francis born in 1824, the copyright date of 1926, would put Francs at 102 years of age! Now, surely, there is more in Hamilton County about this fellow and his family.

"There is a 'stumbling block' to tying him to our Tennessee Hughes as Cook states: 'In the veins of Francis Hughes flows the blood of aristocratic England... Virginia, later to Kentucky...' I consider this only a 'flag' and see no reason why we should not pursue his ancestry....

"Interestingly, Allen Kennedy, the son of Margaret [Hughes] and Daniel [Kennedy], and his brother-in-law Rezin Rawlings, removed from Rhea Co. TN & settled in Chattanooga about 1837."
--Kay White, Feb. 12, 1999

Further clarification by Jeanne Bowman Overbay, Feb. 26, 2000

"The article quoted from the Chattanooga Times on Francis Hughes is referencing the Francis Hughes who is a son of Hezekiah Hughes and Elizabeth Click. His wife was Margaret Duff. There were at least three articles written about him in the local papers after he turned 100.

"He lived to be 104. He had a neice, Emma Bowman Harvey, who lived to be 106, and a great-nephew Ray Harvey, who is still alive today at the age of 101.) This Francis, along with many Hughes descendants are buried in the Bowman Cemetery in Bledsoe County on Flattop Mtn. in Tennessee. The cemetery was named after his brother-in-law, Henry Bowman, who is my great-grandfather."

No county has been identified as the birth place of Hardeman Hughes. It is not known if the birth place refers to the area covered by the current state of North Carolina, or the area that was part of western North Carolina in the 1770's later part of Tennessee.

One source suggests that Hardeman Hughes married in Greene Co TN, and that his wife's name was Cynthia Church. Various researchers have looked for records which might reveal one or more additional offspring for Hardy Hughes and Sinthia Cook. Candidates include George Hughes b. 1800-1810, Hardy Hughes (see below), and Thomas Hughes b. 1815-1820.

Speculation on the Namesake of Hardeman, the Given Name

If Hardeman is a surname that married into the Hughes or Allen lines, an instance of such marriage remains to be identified. What has been found, however, is documented service at the Battle of King's Mountain in the Revoutionary War for both Thomas Hardeman and Francis Hughes, father of Hardeman Hughes. Thomas Hardeman and his sons proved themeselves as leaders in both Tennessee and Texas, as noted below.

The following summary for the life of Thomas Hardeman appears on a web site of Frances Casstevens:

> "Thomas Hardeman and wife Mary Harding Perkins moved to NC, the 'Watauga Country' in 1777. He fought at the Battle of King's Mountain, and was Capt. of a company that marched against the Cherokees in the Nicojack War of 1794.
> "In 1783, the Hardemans moved to Davidson County, TN to Hardeman's crossroads near Nashville. In 1788 he served in the NC House of Commons as a representative from Davidson Co. He was a member of the NC Constitutional Convention, and was a delegate to the Convention which adopted the first Constitution of Tennessee.
> "He served as a Senator in the TN General Assembly in 1797. For his Revolutionary War Service, Thomas received 640 acres on the Little Harpeth in Davidson Co., TN (later Williamson Co.). His home was called "Sugar Hill" and was about 5 miles S of Franklin. He later moved to Missouri and remained until 1830, returned and died in TN in 1833)." [(23)]

• Biographical Note [1462], Charles Hughes

Information from D. Michael Hughes:

Charles Hughes was a Quaker from Wales. Drawn by promises of William Penn, Charles took passage on the ship Vine to Philadelphia in 1684. The passage was paid for by David Davis, to whom he was indentured. Upon completion of the indenture, Charles received a 50 acre Penn grant. Ca 1687

His future wife, Rebecca, came over on the same ship. Charles inherited 200 acres from his friend Thomas Evans. They lived on the Schuykill River. His son John inherited the land on his death, as well as the coopering tools of his father's trade. The will is dated 1711 and was probated 1712, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania.

- Biographical Note [1462], Speculation on the Life of Charles & Rebecca Hughes

This is a direct quote from the excellent research of David Michael Hughes:

Charles Hughes was born about 1665 in Denbighshire, Wales, and died 1711 in Philadelphia Co., PA. He married Rebecca in Radnor township, PA.

Notes for Charles Hughes:

The first direct ancestor of our family to come to America is Charles Hughes of Wales. It is possible that other members of Charles' family had already traveled to America. In fact, there are several "Hughes" in the Welsh groups of Quakers who preceded Charles. At some point it would be useful to investigate their origin. Records in Wales may provide some information about this.

Charles Hughes was on the ship Vine of Liverpool which sailed from Dolyserre (Dolserau) an estate on the Wnion River in Wales, and arrived Philadelphia 17.7 mo 1684. He was listed as a manservant of David Davis who came with his sister Katherine and her daughter Mary Tidey (Tudor). Charles had 3 years to serve. They all apparently came from Denbighshire in Wales. It is near Dolgules (Dolgellau) in Merionethshire Wales.

There were 96 passengers listed on the ship. On the same voyage was Rees Jones who was from Llanglynin. Other passengers on the voyage were from Machinleth or Manhinteth (Machynlleth) in Montgomeryshire. Dr. Griffith Owen was also on this voyage. Griffith Owen was apparently the son of Robert Owen, the famous Quaker leader who lived at Dolserau.

Charles' date of birth is estimated based on an assumption he was probably in his twenties when he sailed.

Another account of the voyage of Charles Hughes to America is in Emigrants to Pennsylvania, edited by Michael Tepper. Under the chapter headed "A Partial List of the Families who Arrived at Philadelphia Between 1682 and 1687" are the following comments, page 7: "It may surprise some of our readers to learn of the number of servants brought out by the early settlers. This is no doubt greatly increased by the liberal terms which Penn offered to emigrants. The advantages offered to those who would bring servants and those who would come as such were equal. Each was to have fifty acres when the servant's time should expire. Nor did the word servant as used here necessarily imply a person who was to perform menial duties. On the contrary, they were often farm hands or skilled mechanics, in some cases of the same social position as their masters, in others they were no doubt overseers to act for purchasers who remained in England, a measure suggested by Penn in his first proposals to purchasers and which he subsequently found reasons to regret."

In fact, Charles' will establishes that he was a cooper and carpenter and became a successful farmer.

Ibid, p. 10: "William Preeson Mr (master) of the Vine of Leverpoole arrived the 1th day of the 7 mo. 1684 At Philadelphia ffrom Dolyserne near dolgules in Merionothshire. Robert Owen & Jeane his wife and Lewes their sone, one servt Boy named Edward Edwards for 8 years & 4 serv't Maids named Loury Edwards for 4 yrs. Margaret Edwards for 4 yers. Ann Owen for 12 yers and Hannah Watt for 3 yers. From 'Derbyshire': David Davis & Katherine his sister & Mary Tidey her daughter and one serv't man named Charles Hues for 3 yers."

Also on this ship were several girls named Rebecca. From Shropshire, Rechard Turner and Margaret his wife & Rebecca their Daughter. From Walton in Lancashire, Henry Baker & Margaret his wife & their Daughters Rachell, Rebecca, Phebey & Hester... From Lancashire, Rebecca, Martha & Elenor Hall & Rebecca Barrow.

In the will of Charles Hughes, written in 1711, "Edward Ab Edward" was a witness to the will. This is probably the servant boy Edward Edwards who was aboard the ship Vine with Charles. If he was a "servant boy" in 1684, he would have been in his mid-thirties in 1711.

I have a note which indicates that the arrival of David Davis, Charles Hughes, etc. on the ship Vine was recorded in the minutes of the Merion Monthly Meeting. If that is the case, it is possible that David Davis was a member of that meeting and Charles may have been also. I need to confirm this information.

In the Welsh Settlement of Pennsylvania by Browning, it is stated that the Radnor mm minutes of 11.2mo 1695 indicate Charles Hughes married out of the church. Radnor township was located just west of Bryn Mawr, PA and just Southeast of Valley Forge. Highway 30 west of Philadelphia runs through this area. This is about 25 miles downstream on the Schuylkill River from Birdsboro. In previous records of the Radnor monthly meeting, Charles is a witness to weddings of several people from 1689 to 1693. Note that this places Charles as a resident of the Radnor township from 1689 to 1695.

A Pennsylvania researcher, Vivian Taylor, said she did not find any particular reference in the monthly meeting minutes which indicated that Charles "married out", only the reference which criticized the other witnesses who were Quakers for attending the wedding outside the church.

Charles may not have been a Quaker. The Quakers who attended his wedding and were criticized may have been his friends. I need to check the Radnor mm minutes for 2/11/1695 to see exactly how this is worded.

Welsh Settlement of Pa, page 262, states: "...and that because David Potts, Owen Thomas, and Evan Harry were at the wedding, 'which marriage friends had no unity with,' "they were dealt with by Robert Owen and Edward Jones, and thereupon gave forth the following paper of condemnation, viz. For as much as we whose names are hereunto written, for want of due consideration have unadvisedly been at the dishonorable marriage of Charles Hughes, and by so doing have transgressed against this good order as established among friends of Truth," &c., hereby acknowledging publicly before the meeting the mistake they made. But in 1722, 5 mo. the Radnor Mo. Mtg. was not so certain of its stand as to "dishonorable marriages," as it instructed its representatives to the quarterly meeting "to report that the monthly meeting was concerned whether it was necessary to disown such persons as go the the priest to marry, or only advise them."

The Radnor mm minutes show that Charles Hughes signed as a witness to weddings in the Quaker Church 8/18/1689, 12/4/1690, 4/23/1692, and 2/22/1693.

In Philadelphia Will Book C, page 295, of 1712, Charles Hughes, wife Rebecca, Children Francis, John, Rebecca, and Ann. Wife and Rees Ap Edward (?sp) executors. Witnesses Rees Ab Edward and Edward Rees.

Signed with his mark Dec. 9, 1711, proved May 8, 1712. A Rees came over on the ship Vine with Charles. A Rees Hughes marries a Mary Jones 4 May 1717 in Christ Church Phil record.

Charles' will is recorded in the Philadelphia will Book C in 1712. Is this the place it would be recorded if Charles was living in Radnor township when he died?

Charles was the executor of the will of Thomas Evans in Upper Providence, Chester County, PA in 1710. Upper Providence township is only three or four miles southwest of Radnor township. The will of Thomas Evans reads "I give devise and bequeath unto my friend Charles Hughes after my said debts and legacies are paid all ye residue of my houses or other ... ailments and appurtenances apparel money plate household goods carpenters tools chattles debts by bond , G.., book, ye or otherwise whensoever or wheresoever to be paid, and deliver to him by my executor to hold to him and his heirs and assignes from henceforth for ever, and I do hereby constitute and ordain my friend Charles Hughes to be sole executor of my last will and testament ...." Thomas Evans apparently left all his estate to Charles Hughes who he described as "friend". Apparently Thomas Evans had no family. What was his connection to Charles Hughes? I had speculated that he might be the father of Rebecca but that is not likely. He might have been related in some other way to Rebecca.

The Gwynedd meeting was formed by sanction of the Radnor No. Mtg. and they began meeting in 6mo 1699. Gwynedd members would be on Radnor minutes until about 1700/1702.

Welsh Founders of Pennsylvania, page 173: "Evan ap Hugh of near Bala, Co. Mer. (Merioneth), yeoman; prob s. (son) of Hugh Cadwalader ap Rhys, of par. (parish?) of Yspytty Evan, and bro. of John ap Hugh (or John Hugh, or Pugh, of Gwynedd). Rmd (removed?) to Gwynedd, Penna., 1698.

Ch. E. (Church of England) Freeholder of 800 a. (acres) ld. (land) in Gwynedd." Whether or not this has any connection with our family I do not know.

The Fulham Papers in the Lambeth Palace Library, Vol VII pages 271,274 by William Wilson Manrose lists Charles Hughes (PA) as a member of Christ Church in Phil 18 May 1741. Also listed as an inhabitant of Wilmington Parish in VA. Could this be a Charles Hughes, son of Francis or John, who is is the militia with Aaron and Mathias in VA? Where is Wilmington Parish? There is a very small town named Wilmington southeast of Charlottesville in Fluvanna County, VA near the James River.

Other mentions of a Charles Hughes:
I searched the Digest Register of Births, Marriages, and Burials for England and Wales c 1650-1837, reels 14, 15, and 16 for a Charles Hughes, none found.

A Charles Hughes is listed as a witness to a will of a Walter Dickenson of Talbot Co. MD in Feb 1680 (Maryland Calendar of Wills" Vol. I, page 99. This cannot be the Charles who came over on the Vine, but we need to be careful to realize there were at least two Charles around in 1680/1700.

A Charles Hughes, age 50, sailed from London to Virginia aboard the Constance on 24 October 1635. He is probably not related to any of our Hughes.

Vivian Taylor commented that the name "Charles" is troublesome to her. She said she was told that at that time no protestant (Quaker or otherwise) would name their child Charles because Charles, King of England, was a Catholic. She felt this might indicate that Charles Hughes was not a Quaker. However, our Charles was probably born just after Charles II regained the throne in 1661. He was very popular for a few years and many children were named for him. His later fall from popularity may explain why Francis may not have named a child "Charles."

I have a transcript of Charles' will. It names children John, Francis, Rebeckah, and Ann.

• Biographical Note [1464]

Charles Hughes was a Quaker. He left Wales and arrived in Philadelphia in 1684 after crossing the Atlantic on the ship Vine and came to America. He was enticed to come by William Penn. He endentured to David Davis for the passage. He got a 50 acre Penn grant. His future wife, Rebecca, came over on the same ship. Charles inherited 200 acres from his friend, Thomas Evans. They lived on the Schuykill River. His son, John, inherited the land on his death. Will dated 1711 and probated 1712, Lancaster Co, PA.

Death: Charles was a cooper and willed his cooper's tools to his son.

• Biographical Note [1462]

Charles (G1) Hughes was born Abt. 1665 in ,Denbighshire, Wales, and died 1711 in ,Philadelphia Co., PA. He married Rebecca in Radnor township, PA.

Notes for Charles Hughes:
The first direct ancestor of our family to come to America is Charles

Hughes of Wales. It is possible that other members of Charles' family had already traveled to America. In fact, there are several "Hughes" in the Welsh groups of Quakers who preceded Charles. At some point it would be useful to investigate their origin. Records in Wales may provide some information about this.

Charles Hughes was on the ship "Vine" of Liverpool which sailed from Dolyserre (Dolserau) an estate on the Wnion River in Wales, and arrived Philadelphia 17.7mo 1684. He was listed as a manservant of David Davis who came with his sister Katherine and her daughter Mary Tidey (Tudor). Charles had 3 years to serve. They all apparently came from Denbighshire in Wales. It is near Dolgules (Dolgellau) in Merionethshire Wales.

There were 96 passengers listed on the ship. On the same voyage was Rees Jones who was from Llanglynin. Other passengers on the voyage were from Machinleth or Manhinteth (Machynlleth) in Montgomeryshire. Dr. Griffith Owen was also on this voyage. Griffith Owen was apparently the son of Robert Owen, the famous Quaker leader who lived at Dolserau.

Charles' date of birth is estimated based on an assumption he was probably in his twenties when he sailed.

• Biographical Note [1462], Rebecca Hughes

Quoted from the excellent research of David Michael Hughes:

Rebecca was born Abt. 1675. She married Charles Hughes in Radnor township, Pennsylvania.

The birth date is estimated based on marriage date of 1695 when Charles married out of the church. It is possible (or probable) that Rebecca's father was named John. Rebecca's first son was named John. It was quite common for families at this time (and in this geographic area) to follow the Quaker naming convention which dictated that the first son would be named after the mother's father.

Hughes Generation 3:

John Hughes, Sr.
b. bef. 1732 -- needs further study
d. Jul. 7, 1791, Greene Co TN

+Sarah, d. aft. 1795

- Aaron Hughes

John's will left his estate to his wife, Sarah, and, upon her death, to their son, Aaron Hughes. The will does not list other children. Other documents do, however, indicate a relationship to two other children, who could have been either siblings or cousins. Those two persons are as follows:

- Margaret Hughes
- Francis Hughes

Early Tennessee histories seem to link an additional person to John and Sarah Hughes. A man named John Hughes claimed that he was the brother of Francis of Greene County. This John Hughes completed a Revolutionary War pension application at the age of 80 on Sep. 5, 1832. The application states that he lived in Burke County, North Carolina, at enlistment. The application also states that he later lived in Blount Co TN, before finally settling in McMinn Co TN. If he were the son of John and Sarah Hughes, he would be listed as follows:

- John Hughes, Jr., b. abt. 1752, d. aft. 1832

A man named Francis Hughes and a man named Thomas Hughes fought in the same regiment from North Carolina during the Revolutionary War. A document called Pierce's Register lists both names on page 191.

The relationship of John and Sarah Hughes to Margaret, Francis, John and Thomas Hughes bears further study.

John Hughes lived and owned land in Frederick County (later organized as part of Shenandoah County), Virginia. He sold land there in 1768, but it is not presently known when John and his wife moved to Greene County Tennessee. Kay White has suggested that they may have lived in Burke County, North Carolina, prior to living in Tennessee.

Col. Daniel Kennedy, husband of Margaret Hughes, was the executor and witness of the will of John Hughes. His service as executor tends to refute other histories, which have argued that Margaret was the daughter of Francis Hughes, who was born earlier in this line in 1697.

May 5, 1786, Tennessee, d. Aug. 13, 1841, Rhea Co TN, married William King Alexander Jul. 8, 1802, Greene Co TN.

Notes on Alexander in-laws:

Mary "Polly" King Alexander, Stephen K. Alexander, and William King Alexander were daughter and sons of William Alexander and Elizabeth King. This William Alexander was b. abt. 1733, Pennsylvania. He married Elizabeth King Dec. 9, 1762. She was b, Jun. 17, 1737, Pennsylvania, and d. Jul. 20, 1817, Tennessee. Elizabeth King was the daughter of Thomas King, Sr. (b. abt. 1695, Londonderry, Ireland, d. bef. 1764, Lancaster Co PA) and Jane Sharp (b. abt. 1699, Scotland), who were married abt. 1715, Lancaster Co PA.

Notes of Daniel Kenndy, shared from research of Kay White:

"In 1774, a Daniel Kennedy served in Lord Dunmore's War as a private in the company of Captain Evan Shelby - it is believed that this was our Daniel as family tradition claims that he served in this war under Shelby. In 1776 he aided in the defense of the Watauga Fort (then NC, now TN) when it was attacked by the Cherokee Indians. He enlisted on 1 Jan 1777 and served as a Sgt. in Capt. John Asby's Co. (also designated as Capt. Valentine Peyton's Co.) of the 3rd Virginia Regiment.

"Historians, in general, state that he migrated to the vicinity of Milburnton, TN (then Washington Co., NC) in 1778, the date of his first land entry, however, at that time he had cleared acreage and two houses on this land which would indicate an earlier migration and it is evident that he was in the Watauga area in 1776.

"Daniel's first land grant for 394 acres was entered on 22 July 1778 'on the head of the Mill Fork of Lick Creek' in Washington Co., NC (North Carolina Grant #328); on 10 Aug 1779 he entered 120 acres adjoining his land (North Carolina Grant #388).

"Prior to 1783, when he appeared on the Greene Co., TN tax list, he had removed to a large tract of land about six miles southeast of Greeneville, TN at the mouth of Camp Creek on the Nolichucky River and this homestead remained in the family for over a hundred years.

"Referred to as the "Father of Greene County", much has been written about Col. Daniel's involvement in the politics of this area and about his military career (see sources). He served in many campaigns under Col. John Sevier, including the Battle of King's Mountain, at which time he was promoted to Captain;

"... he was an interpreter at the Dumplin Creek Treaty after which he was commissioned Colonel; he was a conservative, rather than radical, supporter of the State of Franklin and prominent in that movement (Sevier appointed him a Brigadier General for the State of Franklin in May 1785 however, and perhaps because the State of Franklin did not materialize, it appears that Daniel and his family preferred the title of Colonel);

"...he was Clerk of the Greene County Court and was a trustee of Washington and Greeneville Colleges; in addition to large land holdings, he owned a tannery, an iron works, and a number of slaves."

"The Kennedy's were Scotch-Irish Presbyterians. In Greene Co TN, they were affiliated with the Zion Presbyterian Church. This church stood located just south of the Kennedy homestead, which was just south of the Nolachukey River and across the Old Jonesboro Road from where Camp Creek joins the Nolachukey. A grandson of Daniel Kennedy is believed to have built the house now on the site. This house faces Jonesboro Road.

"Col. Daniel Kennedy's earmark was a single crop of the right ear and a slit in the left ear."

From Goodspeed's History of Greene County, 1887:

"Daniel Kennedy came in 1779, and located on the river four miles east of Greenville, at the mouth of Holley Creek. He was one of the most prominent pioneers of the State, and deserves to rank with Sevier, Shelby and Cocke.

"He was chosen clerk of the county court upon the organization of the county, and continued to hold it under four successive changes of government, a sufficient proof of his integrity and worth.

"He was an ardent support of the State of Franklin, and was an active participant in the convention which founded it. He was also elected a brigadier-general of the Franklin militia."

Daniel Kennedy as Daniel Kennedy III:

"Daniel Kennedy III was the son of Daniel, II of Frederick, now Berkley Co., VA. this Daniel was the son of Daniel Kennedy of ? Scotland. Daniel the 1st was a Jacobite and was captured at Preston. He was transported against his will from Liverpool Liverpool in the Godspeed 28 July 1716, arrived in Maryland, Oct. 1716. Indentured to John Courts, MD 18 Oct. 1716.

"Daniel the 2nd, was apparently married more that once as I am descended from Col. Daniels 1/2 sister Elizabeth from his 1st marriage, but lack details. "
--Don R. Baker, Hughes Genforum post, Dec. 17, 1998

"Daniel Kennedy - Scottish Rebell was transported to America on the Ship Good Speed on the 18 Oct 1716. Daniel was purchased by John Courts of Anne A. MD. Does any Kennedy researcher have proven descent from this Daniel or even "a theory" of descendency from him.

"The rebels were sold by the factor of Messrs. Richard Guildard & Company to serve a term of 7 years. Other Rebell's purchased by John Courts were: Patt McKoy, Angus McDormott. Some of the Rebels were purchased by those who were sympathetic to the Stuart cause, and planned on immediately setting them free."

Francis Hughes
b. 1749 [2], 1758 [3], or 1759 [7], possibly born in Frederick County (organized in 1772 as Dunmore County, which was renamed Shenandoah County in 1778), Virginia
d. Jan. 25, 1841, Greene County

+Rebecca Allen, d. bef. Jan 25, 1841

- Margaret Hughes
- John Hughes
- Rebecca Hughes
- Ingebo Hughes
- Clarissa Hughes
- Hardeman (Hardy) Hughes

One hypothesis holds that Rebecca Allen, b. abt. 1760, was the daughter of Rueben Allen and Ingabo Byrd, although this must be tested and documented. See Allen precursors.

Some uncertainty exists over the birth date of Francis Hughes, as shown by the notations above. Data from these sources as a whole, however, do portray the same man named Francis Hughes. Birth dates for the children of Francis, as listed below, are from a genealogy which uses the 1749 date.

If Francis were born in 1758 or 1759, then estimates for the birth dates for these children should be moved from the 1760's to the 1770's. The 1759 birth date comes from the pension application of Francis Hughes, and currently seems to this author be the correct date.

At least one source claims that Francis Hughes had a second marriage, though no name of a second wife is known. A woman named Mary Ann "Dolly" Miller, the wife of Thornton Miller, claimed that she was a half-sister to John Hughes, the son of Francis Hughes and Rebecca Allen. As Kay White has noted,

> "Francis, in his will, listed ALL of his living legal heirs - IF Mary Ann was living at the time of the Will (1841), she was not his daughter, although she could have possibly been a step-daughter - IF she was deceased at that time, the possibility of either does exist - this bears further study." (12)

Francis without a will:

> "Francis Hughes did not leave a will. The document referred to as a will was actually a court declartion made by Francis' children. They went to court to swear that they were the only living, legal heirs in order to collect their father's pension. It is known that they did not include a half sister, Mary Ann (Polly) Hughes who married Thornton Miller."

Francis Hughes is documented in Revolutionary War Soldiers of Western North Carolina, (7), as follows:

Summary of Early Life

Francis Hughes was born in Shenandoah County, VA in the year 1759. At the beginning of the Revolutionary War, he was living in Western Burke (then Rowan) County, NC. He later was "unsettled", but apparently was residing in the Watauga area of east Tennessee, then North Carolina.

Summary of Partisan Activity

Francis Hughes first entered military service in Burke County, NC in June 1776. He served as a ranger on the western Catawba Frontier, scouting against the hostile Cherokee and Creek Indians. He served in Capt. Penland's Company. In August 1776, Hughes joined up with Rutherford's troops and took part in the Cherokee Expedition of August-October 1776, In his pension declaration, he mentions an engagement in which eighteen Indians were killed.

In January 1777, he enlisted in Col. John Seviers Regiment. Their purpose was to clear the Watauga Settlements from Indian incursions. He helped to erect and and garrison a fort on the Nolachukey River (at Gallaker's orGallagher's).

In September 1780, Hughes volunteered under Col. Sevier (Capt. Samuel William's Company) and took part in the great King's Mountain Expedition of September and October 1780. The march culminated in the American Victory at King's Mountain, SC on October 7, 1780.

His final tour of duty was for a period of one month under Col. Sevier. This consisted of a short march to Cherokee country and back.

Summary of Later Life

Francis Hughes apparently moved from Burke County, NC to Watauga some time during the war... He was in Greene Co TN, by 1782.... He continued to reside in East Tennessee for the remainder of his life.

On July 21, 1833, as a resident of Greene County, TN, age 74 years, he applied for a Federal pension. He was awarded an annual pension of $51.66. In his pension application children are mentioned, but not by name. (See below).[6]

Francis Hughes died January 25, 1841... while residing with his daughter Margaret in Bledsoe County, TN. His wife predeceased him. His heirs were as follows: John Hughes, Margaret Hughes, Ingabow Hixon and Rebecca Hixon.

Francis Hughes pension record, as documented by Descendants of John Hewes, privately published by Eben Putanm, New York, 1913, Call Number Cs71.H892:

"Francis Hughes was of Green County, Tenn., 21 July, 1833, then aged 74 years, when he applied for pension, alleging that he resided in Burke County, N. C., in June, 1776, when he enlisted as a ranger in North Carolina, under Capt. Penland, in the command of Gen. McDowell, and served two months and a half against the Cherokee and Creek Indians.

"On his return from this tour of service, he met the troops under Gen. Rutherford on their march to the Cherokee Nation, and volunteered under Rutherford. The expedition proceeded to the "Nation." In the overhill towns the Indians embodied, and an engagement ensued in which the Indians were defeated with a loss of 18 killed. This tour of service lasted from August, 1776, to December, 1776, four months.

"In Jan., 1777, he volunteered under Col. John Sevier to retake the western settlements on the Watoga. Seviers' force was employed in building a fort for defense at "Gallaker's" on "Nola Sheeky" river, in the present State of Tennessee. Hughes was stationed there for twelve months.

"Under the Act of North Carolina calling for new levies, he volunteered in Sept., 1780, for an expedition, under Col. Sevier, against Ferguson. He was in Capt. Samuel Williams' company and marched with Campbell's Virginia troops across the "Yellow Mountains" into North Carolina, and there met the militia under General McDowell, and in October was present at the battle of King's Mountain.

"After the battle he helped guard the prisoners on the march to the "Barrix" for exchange, serving three months. In the winter of 1780 he again volunteered and was led by Col. Sevier against the Cherokee Indians and marched to the borders of their country, but the Indians had retired. He was one month in this service. His total service was 21 months and 14 days.

"He was born in Shenandoah County, Va., in 1759, and had lived in Washington County, afterward in Green County. He was living in 1839. "

Francis Hughes may have used his Revolutionary War service to qualify for work as a ranger, as noted in the following passages from Goodspeed's History of Greene County, 1887:

> "In 1783, the General Assembly of North Carolina passed an act dividing Washington County for the second time, and establishing the county of Greene. On the third Monday of August, the court of pleas and quarter sessions met at the house of Robert Carr, which stood near to what is known as the Big Spring in Greeneville.

"The magistrates present were Joseph Hardin, John Newman, George Doherty, James Houston, Amos Bird and Asahel Rawlings. Daniel Kennedy was elected clerk; James Wilson, sheriff; William Cocke, attorney for the State; Joseph Hardin, Jr., entry taker; Isaac Taylor, surveyor, Richard Woods, register, and Francis Hughes, ranger."

> "In May, 1785, the county was reorganized under the State of Franklin, and all the officers who were reappointed were required to take a new oath of office. The magistrates who appeared and qualified were Joseph Hardin, George Doherty, Benjamin and John Gist, Newman, Asabel Rawlings, John Maughon, James Patterson, John Weir and David Craig.

"The old county officers were removed except Daniel Kennedy, clerk and Francis Hughes, ranger. The county, as a whole, was the most loyal to the Franklin government of any of the counties composing the State, and jealously guarded against anything tending to weaken its influence or authority."

Land Grant Records for Francis Hughes are as follows: [5]

Kay White shared the following description of the life of John Hughes:

"John Hughes, the son of Francis Hughes (c1759/1841) was born in 1779. His father opposed his marriage to Jane Skiles... and they had their first two children prior to being married at some time after 1800 & before 1809 in the home of a man on the Middle Cumberland. They returned to Greene Co and then removed to Hamilton Co TN.

"There, John had over 800 acres in the Bakewell, TN area. He took over a 640 acre tract at Opposum Creek that had been lost by Robert Patterson in litigation and finished paying for the land in 1830.

"He moved into the old home of Patterson, said to be the first residence built by a white settler in Hamilton Co. This log home was sold in the 1870's to Absalom Selcer and was later occupied by his daughter, Elizabeth, and her husband, Gilbert Vandergriff.

"John owned 14 slaves at the time of the 1840 census and in 1840 he sold a slave named Jane to Dr. William E. Kennedy of Chattanooga for $411 (the son of Allen Kennedy who was the son of Col. Daniel & Margaret (Hughes) Kennedy). He set up a burial ground on his property and the family followed the old Welch custom of erecting bench tombs over the crypts.

"He resided many years before and after the Civil War on the north side of the old trace to Chickamauga Creek. John died on Mar. 15, 1871, and Jane died abt. 1869. There is monument in Bakewell Cemetery, Bakewell, TN placed there by David H. Graves in 1988 which lists the birth & death dates for John & Jane and the names and most of the dates for their children. It is also inscribed as follows:

'In this cemetery lie the remains of John Hughes, Jane Hughes & their daughter, Nancy Hughes Hixson. Pioneer settler John Hughes founded the Bakewell community and the original church and school. He donated land for the church, for the school and the

Charles (G1) Hughes (b. Abt. 1665, d. 1711)

Dolserau Hall in Wales

Charles (G1) Hughes was born Abt. 1665 in ,Denbighshire, Wales, and died 1711 in ,Philadelphia Co., PA. He married Rebecca in ,Radnor township, PA.

Notes for Charles (G1) Hughes:
The first direct ancestor of our family to come to America is Charles Hughes of Wales. It is possible that other members of Charles' family had already traveled to America. In fact, there are several "Hughes" in the Welsh groups of Quakers who preceded Charles. At some point it would be useful to investigate their origin. Records in Wales may provide some information about this.

Charles Hughes was on the ship "Vine" of Liverpool which sailed from Dolyserre (Dolserau) an estate on the Wnion River in Wales, and arrived Philadelphia 17.7mo 1684. He was listed as a manservant of David Davis who came with his sister Katherine and her daughter Mary Tidey (Tudor). Charles had 3 years to serve. They all apparently came from Denbighshire in Wales. It is near Dolgules (Dolgellau) in Merionethshire Wales.

There were 96 passengers listed on the ship. On the same voyage was Rees Jones who was from Llanglynin. Other passengers on the voyage were from Machinleth or Manhinteth (Machynlleth) in Montgomeryshire. Dr. Griffith Owen was also on this voyage. Griffith Owen was apparently the son of Robert Owen, the famous Quaker leader who lived at Dolserau.

Charles' date of birth is estimated based on an assumption he was probably in his twenties when he sailed.

Another account of the voyage of Charles Hughes to America is in "Emigrants to Pennsylvania" edited by Michael Tepper. Under the chapter headed 'A Partial List of the Families who Arrived at Philadelphia Between 1682 and 1687' are the following comments. (page 7) "It may surprise some of our readers to learn of the number of servants brought out by the early settlers. This is no doubt greatly increased by the liberal terms which Penn (William Penn) offered to emigrants. The advantages offered to those who would bring servants and those who would come as such were equal. Each was to have fifty acres when the servant's time should expire. Nor did the word servant as used here necessarily imply a person who was to perform menial duties. On the contrary, they were often farm hands or skilled mechanics, in some cases of the same social position as their masters, in others they were no doubt overseers to act for purchasers who remained in England, a measure suggested by Penn in his first proposals to purchasers and which he subsequently found reasons to regret - Ed/]"

In fact, Charles' will establishes that he was a cooper and carpenter and became a successful farmer.

(page 10) "William Preeson Mr (master) of the Vine of Leverpoole arrived the 1th day of the 7 mo. 1684 At Philadelphia ffrom Dolyserne near dolgules in Merionothshire. Robert Owen & Jeane his wife and Lewes their sone, one servt Boy named Edward Edwards for 8 years & 4 serv't Maids named Loury Edwards for 4 yrs. Margaret Edwards for 4 yers. Ann Owen for 12 yers and Hannah Watt for 3 yers.
From 'Derbyshire': David Davis & Katherine his sister & Mary Tidey her daughter and one serv't man named Charles Hues for 3 yers."
Also on this ship were several girls named Rebecca. From Shropshire, Rechard Turner and Margaret his wife & Rebecca their Daughter. From Walton in Lancashire, Henry Baker & Margaret his wife & their Daughters Rachell, Rebecca, Phebey & Hester... From Lancashire, Rebecca, Martha & Elenor Hall & Rebecca Barrow.

In the will of Charles Hughes, written in 1711, "Edward Ab Edward" was a witness to the will. This is probably the servant boy Edward Edwards who was aboard the ship Vine with Charles. If he was a "servant boy" in 1684, he would have been in his mid-thirties in 1711.
I have a note which indicates that the arrival of David Davis, Charles Hughes, etc. on the ship "Vine" was recorded in the minutes of the Merion Monthly Meeting. If that is the case, it is possible that David Davis was a member of that meeting and Charles may have been also. I need to confirm this information.

In the "Welsh Settlement of Pennsylvania" by Browning, it is stated that the Radnor mm minutes of 11.2mo 1695 indicate Charles Hughes married out of the church. Radnor township was located just west of Bryn Mawr, PA and just Southeast of Valley Forge. Highway 30 west of Philadelphia runs through this area. This is about 25 miles downstream on the Schuylkill River from Birdsboro. In previous records of the Radnor monthly meeting, Charles is a witness to weddings of several people from 1689 to 1693. Note that this places Charles as a resident of the Radnor township from 1689 to 1695.

A Pennsylvania researcher, Vivian Taylor, said she did not find any particular reference in the monthly meeting minutes which indicated that Charles "married out", only the reference which criticized the other witnesses who were Quakers for attending the wedding outside the church.

Charles may not have been a Quaker. The Quakers who attended his wedding and were criticized may have been his friends. I need to check the Radnor mm minutes for 2/11/1695 to see exactly how this is worded.

In "Welsh Settlement of Pa" p262, it is stated "...and that because David Potts, Owen Thomas, and Evan Harry were at the wedding, 'which marriage friends had no unity with', "they were dealt with by Robert Owen and Edward Jones, and thereupon gave forth the following paper of condemnation, viz. For as much as we whose names are hereunto written, for want of due consideration have unadvisedly been at the dishonorable marriage of Charles Hughes, and by so doing have transgressed against this good order as established among friends of Truth," &c., hereby acknowledging publicly before the meeting the mistake they made. But in 1722, 5 mo. the Radnor Mo. Mtg. was not so certain of its stand as to "dishonorable marriages," as it instructed its representatives to the quarterly meeting "to report that the monthly meeting was concerned whether it was necessary to disown such persons as go the the priest to marry, or only advise them."

The Radnor mm minutes show that Charles Hughes signed as a witness to weddings in the Quaker Church 8/18/1689, 12/4/1690, 4/23/1692, and 2/22/1693.

In Philadelphia wills (will book C p295) 1712, Charles Hughes, wife Rebecca, Children Francis, John, Rebecca, and Ann. Wife and Rees Ap Edward (?sp) executors. Witnesses Rees Ab Edward and Edward Rees. Signed with his mark Dec. 9, 1711, proved May 8, 1712. A Rees came over on the ship Vine with Charles. A Rees Hughes marries a Mary Jones in 4 May 1717 in Christ Church Phil record.

Charles' will is recorded in the Philadelphia will book in 1712. Is this the place it would be recorded if Charles was living in Radnor township when he died?

Charles was the executor of the will of Thomas Evans in Upper Providence, Chester County, PA in 1710. Upper Providence township is only three or four miles southwest of Radnor township. The will of Thomas Evans reads "I give devise and bequeath unto my friend Charles Hughes after my said debts and legacies are paid all ye residue of my houses or other ... ailments and appurtenances apparel money plate household goods carpenters tools chattles debts by bond , G.., book, ye or otherwise whensoever or wheresoever to be paid, and deliver to him by my executor to hold to him and his heirs and assignes from henceforth for ever, and I do hereby constitute and ordain my friend Charles Hughes to be sole executor of my last will and testament ...." Thomas Evans apparently left all his estate to Charles Hughes who he described as "friend". Apparently Thomas Evans had no family. What was his connection to Charles Hughes? I had speculated that he might be the father of Rebecca but that is not likely. He might have been related in some other way to Rebecca.

The Gwynedd meeting was formed by sanction of the Radnor No. Mtg. and they began meeting in 6mo 1699. Gwynedd members would be on Radnor minutes until about 1700/1702.

FROM: WELSH FOUNDERS OF PENNSYLVANIA: p 173 "Evan ap Hugh of near Bala, Co. Mer. (Merioneth), yeoman; prob s. (son) of Hugh Cadwalader ap Rhys, of par. (parish?) of Yspytty Evan, and bro. of John ap Hugh (or John Hugh, or Pugh, of Gwynedd). Rmd (removed?) to Gwynedd, Penna., 1698.

Ch. E. (Church of England) Freeholder of 800 a. (acres) ld. (land) in Gwynedd." Whether or not this has any connection with our family I do not know.

FROM: THE FULHAM PAPERS IN THE LAMBETH PALACE LIBRARY - by William Wilson Manrose - Vol VII p271,274 Charles Hughes (PA) listed as a member of Christ Church in Phil 18 May 1741. Also listed as an inhabitant of Wilmington Parish in VA. Could this be a Charles Hughes, son of Francis or John, who is is the militia with Aaron and Mathias in VA? Where is Wilmington Parish? There is a very small town named Wilmington southeast of Charlottesville in Fluvanna County, VA near the James River.

Other mentions of a Charles Hughes:
I searched the "Digest Register of Births, Marriages, and Burials for England and Wales c 1650-1837" reels 14, 15, and 16 for a Charles Hughes, none found.

A Charles Hughes is listed as a witness to a will of a Walter Dickenson of Talbot Co. MD in Feb 1680. (from "Maryland Calendar of Wills" Vol. I p99) This cannot be the Charles who came over on the Vine, but we need to be careful to realize there were at least two Charles around in 1680/1700.

FROM "THE EARLY SETTLERS OF MARYLAND" p243 - Hues, Charles Liber (book) WC2 Folio (page) 394 Remarks: Transported 1680. Servant. (This is possibly the person listed above).

A Charles Hughes - age 50, sailed from London to Virginia aboard the "Constance" on 24 October 1635. He is probably not related to any of our Hughes.

Vivian Taylor commented that the name "Charles" is troublesome to her. She said she was told that at that time no protestant (Quaker or otherwise) would name their child Charles because Charles, King of England, was a Catholic. She felt this might indicate that Charles Hughes was not a Quaker. However, our Charles was probably born just after Charles II regained the throne in 1661. He was very popular for a few years and many children were named for him. His later fall from popularity may explain why Francis may not have named a child "Charles".

I have a transcript of Charles' will. It names children John, Francis, Rebeckah, and Ann.

Notes from http://familytreemaker.genealogy.com/users/h/u/g/David-M-Hughes/WEBSITE-0001/UHP-1462.html Notes for Margaret Hughes:Shields states that this Margaret Hughes who marries Daniel Kennedy is the step daughter of James Hughes who dies 1767 in Augusta Co. VA and wife Euphenia. This means Margaret would have been a child of Euphenia by prior marriage.I have attached the Margaret Hughes who marries Daniel Kennedy III to this Francis because the generational sequence seems to match the best. This is strictly an assumption and may not be correct. I need to check the Rhea County, TN census for 1810 to determine the age of this Margaret Hughes. Also check Rhea County tax list for 1808 for Daniel Kennedy who would be her son. She may be living there with him. A Margaret Kennedy also is shown on the Greene County tax list for 1812. This may be the wife of Daniel III or her daughter.I also wonder if Margaret could be the daughter of Aaron born c. 1735 or John born c. 1732?More About Margaret Hughes:Burial: 1816, Mount Zion Presb, Church Cem, Rhea Co., TN.

Francis (G2) Hughes (b. Abt. 1697, d. 1777)

Francis (G2) Hughes (son of Charles (G1) Hughes and Rebecca) was born Abt. 1697 in near Philadelphia, Lancaster, PA, and died 1777 in prob Augusta Co., VA. He married Christina on Bet. 1720 - 1734 in prob Philadelphia, PA.

Notes for Francis (G2) Hughes:
Francis is named in the will of his father, Charles Hughes, in 1711. He is listed with brother John and sisters Rebeckah (Rebecca) and Ann.
John is apparently the older brother as he is given the 200 acres of land owned by Charles.

In 1720, Francis is a signatory to a petition requesting that the area on the south side of the Schuylkill river - in the area of Robeson township - be brought into the jurisdiction of Philadelphia County instead of Chester County. He must have been close to 21 years old by 1720. I have therefore estimated a birth date of 1697-1700. Israel Robeson was also a signer of the petition.

Francis is listed on the tax rolls of Chester County, PA as resident in Coventry township in 1725 and 1726.

In the Quarter Sessions minutes for August 5, 1729 in Lancaster County, PA, Francis is appointed by the court as "Constable of Robinson (Robeson) township".

Francis is mentioned in the Cocalico township Quarter Sessions docket (1729-1742).
In the Quarter Sessions minutes for August 5, 1735 in Lancaster County, PA, Francis is mentioned in a petition as follows: "Several Inhabitants of the Township of Robinson praying a Road may be laid out Beginning at the most Convenient place near the Sinking Spring on Tolpehoken Road thence by Widdow Jones's, James Lewis's the Saw Mill and ffrancis Hugh's plantation into the Cocalico Road. Thence to the County line in order to Joyn a Road Leading by Millers Mill to Philadelphia".

In the same minutes for court held May 4, 1735: "ffrancis Hughs to appear and prosecute Jno Rogers for assault and battery". The minutes further state "John Rogers: Stealing one Bay Gelding to the Vallue of Six pounds belonging to ffrancis Hughs. Found guilty. Ordered to make restitution, fined six pounds plus costs & Moreover Receive on his bare back twenty one Lashes".

There are other mentions in these court minutes of Francis as a member of the jury, etc.

In the May, 1735 minutes of Cocalico township there is a petition for "a Road from Jacob Smiley's near Kits Miller's Mill to Francis Hughes' on Schuylkill; thence to Campbell's Ford".

Marjorie Shields (a Hughes family researcher) made notes which indicated a reference to Francis: "1735 - Thomas Hughes dec'd Lancaster Co. PA wife Elizabeth, children Elisha, Thomas, Deborah, and David. Mentioned in deed of Francis in Lancaster Co. PA. His wife married Edward Mitchell and moved to Cecil County Maryland." I do not have this deed and know of no other connection between Francis and Thomas. Since Thomas is not listed in Charles' will, I presume he is not a brother of Francis. It is possible that he is a brother to Charles who came over from Wales.

From the records I have, it appears to me that Marjorie is referring to a mention of a Thomas Hughes who witnessed a deed in Lancaster County in 1751. The exact record from "Lancaster County, Pennsylvania Deed Abstracts - Deed Books 'A' through 'M'" compiled by R. Thomas Mayhill is as follows:
"(deed book) C99 William Bird (ironmaster) and w Bridget (Britchet) of Robeson tp enf. to Samuel Sealy (ironmaster) of Robeson tp 1,200 pounds (currency). 194 acres Robeson tp: Francis Hughes, Victor Naily, w. side Hay Creek. Also, 80 acres Robeson tp: William Bird; Also, 111 acres Robeson tp: Israel Robeson; Also, 75 acres Robeson tp: Enock Flowers; Also 226 acres Robeson tp: on Six Pence Creek; Also 204 acres Robeson tp: No. adjacent owners shown; Also Robeson tp: William Bird Part of 1,341 acres patented 16 March 1749 to William Bird (part of 243 acres)..... (deed book) C103 (same descriptions as above plus this note:) 29 May 1751 Joseph David, Thomas Hughes J14 4 Jul '51.

I believe the Thomas Hughes above is only coincidentally mentioned here. This does not appear to have any particular significance regarding family relationships. There is, however, a good possibility that a Thomas Hughes is somehow related to our family. There are numerous mentions of a Thomas in close proximity to our family.

1736 Francis Hughes patent in Lancaster Co. PA 194 acres on Haycreek (at the Schuylkill river). Francis is listed as "Francis Hughes late of Victor Nailey". Victor Nailey was a settlement not far from present Birdsboro.

A Francis Hughes is listed on the tax rolls of Chester County, PA as a resident in West Caln township in 1747. This may have been a place of temporary residence for Francis after he sold his land to William Bird and before moving to Virginia.

Francis' property on the Schuylkill was located in Lancaster County until 1752 when that part of the county became Berks County.

1746 - Francis Hughes "yeoman" and his wife Christian sell their "two hundred acres and the allowance" to William Bird for the sum of 280 pounds "current money of Pennsylvania". The sale is recorded in Berks County, PA Deed Book 7, page 486. (Note: Yeoman: a freeholder of a class below the gentry who worked his own land, a small land owner, an attendent or manservant in a royal or noble household, an assistant or subordinate (Webster's). Most likely a small land owner in the deed above.

Francis (73) bought prop in Augusta Co. VA in 1747. Deed Book No. 2 p. 13 - "4th September, 1747. John Millar (Millan) and wife Hannah of Augusta County for the sum of 60 pounds sold to Francis Hughes, late of Lancaster County of the province of Pennsylvania 200 acres in Augusta County being a part of 400 acres patented to Thomas Rutherford, of

Frederick County, and by him sold to James Gill, late of Augusta; other part in possession of Thomas Moore. Teste: Mathew Skeen, Thos. Milsap. Delivered to Abra. (?) Bird, January, 1754."

I DON'T BELIEVE I HAVE SEEN ANY RECORD WHICH MENTIONS CHRISTINA AFTER THE SALE OF THE PROPERTY IN PENNSYLVANIA TO BIRD. THIS COULD INDICATE THAT: 1. SHE DIED BEFORE FRANCIS LEFT FOR VIRGINIA. 2. THE FRANCIS WHO BUYS LAND IN VIRGINIA IS NOT THE SAME FRANCIS WHO WAS MARRIED TO CHRISTINA 3. SHE IS SIMPLY NOT MENTIONED IN THE RECORDS (WAS IT USUAL TO MENTION THE WIFE'S NAME IN PURCHASE OF LAND?)

Note that the reference above includes the words "late of Lancaster County of the province of Pennsylvania". This, when combined with the timing of the PA sale and the VA purchase, is a strong indication that the Francis who buys property in Augusta Co. VA is the same as the son of Charles of PA.

Note that the delivery of the deed to Abraham Bird (who was a son of Andrew Bird) probably indicates a close family relationship. (I speculate that Christina may have been a sister or aunt to Abraham Bird). Abraham later (in 1779) proved the will of Francis. This is first indication of a Francis in Augusta Co. VA. He probably came from Penn to Va in late 1746 or early 1747.

Chalkley's Vol I p. 43: 9/21/1750 Francis Hughes - one old wolf head. p. 46 Robt. McClenachan qualified sheriff 8/27/1751. Francis Hughes complains Robt. McClenachan has taken him up as a runaway. I wonder if this could be the Francis "Jr." who is listed in the militia roster in 1767? If Francis Jr. is the son of Francis (G2), he would probably have been born about 1736 or so. This would make him about 15 years old in 1751. This is a strange situation. Robert McClenachan and Francis had both lived in the area for three or four years and should have known each other well enough to avoid this mistake. Peter Wilson suggests that this error may have been caused by his surname. Notice had been posted by Thomas Dansie of King William County for a runaway servant named William Hughes. (Chalkley I, p 46,47).

"Genealogies of Va. Families" p. 138 - Francis Hughes buys 225 a. in Augusta Co. on NR of Shenando. 17 Mar 1756. (also mentioned on p. 354 of Va. Historical Mag. vol 34. The date on this record appears to be in error. This 225 acres was surveyed for Francis Hughes March 27, 1750. It is adjacent to the original 200 acres he bought in 1747.

Henning's Statutes at Large Vol 7 p. 204 - 13 shillings paid to Aaron Hughes and Charles Hughes as wages in militia of Albemarle Co. VA
9/1758. "back wages due from Geo II 'an act for the defence of the frontiers of this colony, and for other purposes therein mentioned". This would give this Aaron a birthdate before 1740 (if he was at least 18 yrs old in 1758). Note the existance of a Charles Hughes, possibly a grandson of Charles and Rebecca (?). During the upheaval caused by the frequent indian attacks in the 1750's many settlers temporarily left the Shenandoah valley and moved to safer ground to the east. It is possible that this Aaron and Charles were part of our family and had enlisted in Albemarle county after moving there for safety. It is also possible that they were members of the Hughes families in Albemarle who may or may not be related to our family.

Some notes on the French and Indian War:

From 1754 to 1758, heavy Indian attacks occurred in the Shenandoah Valley in Virginia and along the Catawaba River in NC. From October, 1754 to the end of 1756, these assaults resulted in the deaths of at least 68 persons in the Shenandoah Valley. In 1757 and 1758, at least 49 settlers were killed, five wounded, and 86 taken prisoner. During the period around 1756 to 1759, many people fled Rowan County, NC to safety east of the Yadkin River. Peace finally came about 1761.

Francis was listed as overseer of roads in Augusta Co. VA in 1751. In 1752 Francis signs a petition about rerouting a road by his place in Augusta Co. VA.

Francis is shown still owning prop bought from Millar in 1768 when his land was processioned. Valentine Sevier is shown as a neighbor.
In 1767 Francis Hughs is named in the processioning of property in Augusta Co.

Militia records indicate that Aaron Hughes, John Hughes, and a Francis Hughes, Jr. are listed as delinquents under Captain Andrew Bird's company for missing a muster on April 16, 1767. The term "Jr." for Francis Hughes, Jr. does not necessarily indicate that he is a son of Francis (G2). It is not likely, however, that he is a grandson of Francis (G2). Aaron would only be about 32 years old at this time and John would only be about 35. He could be a son of John (G2) the brother of Francis (G2), but I have no information proving conclusively that John (G2) was even present in Virginia. I suspect that "Jr." is the son of Francis (G2) and was born after Aaron and John. This would give him a birthdate of about 1738 to 1740 and making his age at this time to be in his late twenties. If this is the case, it would seem that it is impossible for the Francis who served at King's Mountain to be the son of Francis (G2). Francis of King's Mountain stated in his pension application that he was born in 1759. He would have only been 8 years old at the time of the militia muster mentioned above. I believe Francis of King's Mountain was of the next generation and was probably the son of Aaron (G3) or John (G3).

In 1777 Francis died in Augusta Co. VA with Aaron as administrator of his estate. David Grey speculated that there may also have been a son Moses who named his sons Francis, Aaron, and Thomas. The court records of Bortetourt or Augusta Co. VA indicate that 26 July 1779 "Will of Francis Hughes proved and Aaron Hughes qualifies executor." This seems to put Aaron in VA at that time. Note that the Aaron of Botetourt Co sold his land in 1783 to Brewer Reeves and left for Tennessee.

Francis Hughes is listed in 1766 under "Supernumeraries" in the VA court records. There is also an Aaron Hughs listed as a supernumerary" in the same record in 1766. Aaron (G3) would have been 31 years old at this time. Could he be supernumerary because of the military service listed above? I need to ask someone who knows about this.

We need to check for his will in Augusta Co. Va in 1777 to see if he names children. (I checked for Va wills at Clayton Library in Houston and could not find any will for him on microfilm there). Harry Long of New Market, VA told me he had checked the library in Richmond without success. I intend to check further. John Henton was the bondsman (10,000 pounds) for the will of Francis. Henton was the son of George Henton who purchased land in 1717 very near the land owned by Francis and Christina. They apparently attended the same church in Douglassville (Morlatton) as Francis and Christina. John Henton was probably a friend of Francis in Pennsylvania who later moved to Virginia as did Francis. John Henton was also a neighbor to John Hughes (son of Francis) in VA.

David Grey (a genealogist and apparently related to the Hughes family) stated in his notes that historians speculate that this Francis had children Francis, John, David, and Thomas - and that they were all at the battle of King's Mountain. I am not so sure about this. I believe Francis and Christina had children Aaron (b1735), Francis, Jr. (bc1740), and John (bc1732) plus some others (Moses, etc.).

Note that at least two of Francis' children are born between 1730 and 1740 in PA.

In will of Thomas Hughes (733) who died in 1765 "in a weak and declining condition", sons listed are Thomas, John, FRANCIS, Anthony, Matthew, William, and Thomas the younger. Is it possible this could be a son of Francis (73)???? He died in Orange Co. VA. Augusta Co. was formed from Orange Co. in 1738-1745.

Also note that the children of Charles Hughes (575) - Francis and John - could be the right age to be in Augusta Co. in 1740/1750.

After reviewing all of the facts, I have not found any mention of the Francis who moves to VA conclusively tied to a wife Christina. There is simply no mention of a wife's name in Virginia. We need to find the records of the sale of the 200 acres and the 225 acres of land on the south fork of the Shenandoah which Francis bought in 1747 and 1750. If his wife is still alive when the land is sold, her name would appear on the sale documents.

Marriage Notes for Francis (G2) Hughes and Christina:
It is speculated that Christina was the daughter of Swan Rambo or Andrew Bird. Since the first record of a child is the baptism of Aaron in 1734, she could have married Francis as late as 1733. He would have been about 36 years old by then.

Children of Francis (G2) Hughes and Christina are:

- Note:

  His birth place is based on speculation and circumstantial evidence that seems to show that Larkin was a brother to Fielding Hensley, Samuel Hensley, William Hensley and Joseph Hensley, who all lived in Washington Co, VA at one time or another.

- Death: BETWEEN 1805 AND 1806 in Washington, Virginia

  The 1805 tax entry was his last, and the next year Sarah Hensley was listed on the tax list for the first time, presumably as his widow.

Marriage 1 Sarah b: ABT 1767 in Virginia

- Married: ABT 1788 in Washington, Virginia
- Note:

  Although no marriage record located, circumstantial evidence suggests his wife was named Sarah. Larkin Hensley was listed on the various tax lists in Washington Co, VA beginning in 1788, and ending in 1805. The 1805 entry was his last, and the next year Sarah Hensley was listed on the tax list for the first time. Since Larkin was not listed in 1806, and Sarah was, it is assumed that she was his widow. This is further supported by two Court Cases dated 181(6?) and 1819 which seem to list the heirs of Larkin Hensley. The first name in the list was "Sarah Hensley", followed by the children. Typically, the widows name is listed first in estates, probate and other similar records.

Larkin Hensley (c1767) and Sarah --- of Washington and Scott County, Virginia The author (Marty Grant) is a 5th Great Grandson of Larkin and Sarah (---) Hensley.

Note: There were several men named Larkin Hensley but this one is the oldest of the bunch.

Special Thanks to Laura White Hensley, Ruthe Muench and Laura Schreibman for information shared on this family.

Larkin Hensley was born ca 1761 or earlier. I base this on his first known public record being dated 1782 when he received a Land Grant as an assignee (agent) of someone else. He didn't have to be 21 to do this, for anyone could receive a grant at any age if certain conditions were met (being an orphan for example.) He didn't appear by name on a tax list until 1788, so perhaps he didn't turn 21 until around that time. That would put his birth at ca 1767 or earlier. I'm rather inclined to use "ca 1767" instead of "ca 1761" now. The two dates aren't that far apart anyway.

Larkin was born in Virginia presumably, but the county is unknown. Culpeper or Buckingham are strong possibilities based on presumed relationships with other Hensleys from those counties. It should be noted that none of these relationships have been proven, so perhaps Larkin was from somewhere else entirely.

I have not been able to determine who Larkin's parents were. It has been suggested by others (and I concur) that Larkin might be a brother to one or several of the other Hensleys about his age who also settled in Washington County, Virginia. This list includes: Joseph Hensley (1750/60-1832) , Samuel Hensley (1755-1841) , Fielding Hensley (c1761-1833) and William Hensley (bef 1761-aft 1810). There is no direct proof that any of them are brothers, but they did all apparently know each other and lived near each other. They are certainly related in some close fashion. See my general commentary on Hensleys of Washington County, Virginia for more information.

Of the above, we have no definitive birth places, but Fielding Hensley did live in Buckingham County before moving to Washington County. There was also a William Hensley in Buckingham from the 1770's through late 1780's, but I don't know if it is the same one later found in Washington County records. Seems likely that it is. A Zachariah Hensley (c1751-aft 1774) was listed in Buckingham in 1773 and 1774. Fielding named one of his sons Zachariah, so he may be another potential brother.

Proven sisters Milly Hensley (1760/65-aft 1850) (wife of William Cornett) and Agnes Hensley (c1763-1850) (wife of William Godsey) were both from Buckingham Co., VA and both lived in Washington Co., VA for a time. These two are quite possibly siblings to Larkin Hensley as well.

None of that proves that Larkin Hensley was ever in Buckingham County, but it is certainly a possibility. Unfortunately, Buckingham is a burned county and very few pre-Civil War era records remain.

On 5 Apr 1782, Larkin Hensley was issued a land warrant as an Assignee of Loven Bledsoe, for 89 acres on Ketron's Fork in Washington Co, VA. "Assignee" means that although Lovin Bledsoe was the one entitled (or qualified) to receive this land, he transferred his rights to Larkin Hensley for some reason. Are they related? Or was this Bledsoe's way of settling a debt? This does show that Larkin was in this area at this time, and that he was of age (21 or older) in 1782. This land was not actually granted to him until 1797. (Washington Co, VA Land Warrant # 8473).

See Lovin Bledsoe's page for more information about him.

The 89 acre patent was the only land Larkin Hensley had and he apparently lived on it, and 15 years later the same land was finally granted to him by the State of Virginia. Ketrons Fork is in the extreme southeastern corner of present Scott County, Virginia (which was formed from Washington County in 1815) and the head waters are still in present Washington County, but most of its course is in Scott County. It runs only about 2 miles from the Sullivan County, Tennessee line. It would seem that Larkin and family resided on the part of the creek that is now in Scott County, Virginia.

Larkin Hensley did not appear on the 1782 tax lists in either Washington or Buckingham County or elsewhere as far as I've found. He also did not appear on the 1787 tax list in either place or elsewhere. This is unusual since every male over 21 was supposed to be listed by name. Perhaps he didn't turn 21 until late 1787 or early 1788.

Larkin Hensley was listed on the tax lists in Washington County 1788 through 1790. He had no land at this time (the 89 acre entry had not been granted yet.) For some reason his name was listed as "Larkins" just as often as "Larkin" so I wonder what his correct name was?

Larkin Hensley married ca 1788, presumably in Washington Co, VA (no marriage record located). There is some doubt as to who his wife was. Circumstantial evidence suggests his wife was named Sarah ---.

No direct evidence has been found proving this, but here is the logic behind "Sarah" as his wife. Larkin Hensley was listed on the various tax lists in Washington Co, VA beginning in 1788, and ending in 1805. The 1805 entry was his last, and the next year Sarah Hensley was listed on the tax list for the first and only time. Since Larkin was not listed in 1806, and Sarah was, it is assumed that she was his widow. This is a big assumption, but if you look at the 1805 personal property tax list there were seven Hensleys listed: Fielding, Ichabod, Larkin, Nicholas, Samuel, William and William. In 1806 all of these were still listed except Ichabod and Larkin. Two new listings in 1806 included one for Sarah and one for Jesse. Since Ichabod and Larkin were listed in 1805 but not in 1806, it is generally assumed that one of them was dead leaving widow Sarah behind. Ichabod was not dead but had moved to Knox Co., TN, so that leaves only Larkin as suspect for husband of Sarah. Of course this is entirely circumstantial. Read on.

Sarah being Larkin's widow is further supported by two Court Cases dated 181- and 1819 which seem to list the heirs of Larkin Hensley (the case does not say specifically that they are Larkin's heirs, though apparently Ruthe Muench located one record that actually said they were Larkin's heirs, I have not seen that record.) The first name in the list was "Sarah Hensley", followed by the children. Typically, the widow is listed first in estates, probate and other similar records. These two tidbits combine to strongly suggest, but not prove, that Larkin's wife was named "Sarah." Another possibility is that "Sarah" was the oldest daughter of Larkin, and thus named first in the list due to her being the oldest.

So based on the above you can see that Sarah is very likely the widow of Larkin Hensley, though there is room for doubt and the following information seems to contradict the above, but I don't know how to reconcile it.

Laura Schreibman shared two different Family records, written by two granddaughters of Thomas Hensley (Larkin's youngest child.) Thomas' granddaughter Dollie Bradley Hensley (1873) wrote out a brief family record stating:

Major Thomas Hensley mothers name was Emmie Childres

Now "Emmie" is probably short for Emaline, and "Childres" is a common misspelling of "Childress." These records do not list Thomas' father. There were Childress' in Washington Co., VA, so this could easily be correct. I can't reconcile this with "Sarah" being Larkin's wife though. This conflict could be easily resolved if her name was "Sarah Emaline Childress" or something similar. However, I doubt that was her name as women rarely had two names in that time period. My first reaction was that Thomas' grandchildren were mistaken about who his mother was, but dismissing their information outright is not wise. Since they were grandchildren of Thomas, they were not eyewitnesses, so their record can't be considered primary evidence, but they obviously had access to family members, and family knowledge that has since been lost, so their data should not be ignored. Even if they were mistaken about her given name, this should be considered a strong clue about something. Perhaps Sarah's maiden name was Childress, even though her first name might not be "Emmie." More research is needed to prove something either way.

There were no Childress or similar names on the Washington County tax lists until 1788 when a Roland and Henry Childs were listed in John Lathim's District. That same year Patterson Childers was listed in the other district. That was his one and only entry on the tax lists, he didn't appear after that. Their surname was spelled various ways, Chiles, Childs, Childes. I don't know if there is any connection between them and Larkin's wife, but it is worth noting. Rowland and Henry Chiles / Childes appear on the tax lists through 1794. That is the last entry for Rowland, but Henry continues to appear through at least 1802 and perhaps later. A John Childes appears in 1795. In 1799 a Gideon Childers shows up on the tax lists. Henry Childs was listed on the land tax lists as well, and by 1803 the spelling of his name had evolved to "Childers" though on the personal property list of that same year he was spelled "Childs."

The 1790 census for Virginia was lost, but presumably Larkin Hensley would have been listed on it, in Washington Co, VA.

On 4 Sep 1797, Larkin Hensley, assignee of Loven Bledsoe, received a State Land Grant for 89 acres on Ketron's Fork, a branch of Cove Creek, on the waters of the North Fork of Holston River. This is the same land he received a warrant for in 1782. This land is in present Scott County, Virginia (Land Office Grants No. 37, 1796-1798, p. 392 (Reel 103)) from the Library of Virginia.

In 1798 Larkan Hensley was listed as a Militia Man (probably a private) in the 2nd Battalion, 70th Regiment. (Clark, Gerald H. The Militia of Washington County, VA Officers 1777-1835 Militia Men 1798-1835. 1979)

Larkin Hensley was listed on the Washington Co., VA Tax Lists 1791 through 1800. In 1799 he appeared on the land tax list with his 89 acres that was finally granted in 1797.

The 1800 census for Virginia was also lost, but presumably, Larkin would have been listed in Washington Co, VA.

Larkin Hensley was listed on the Washington Co., VA Tax Lists 1801 through 1805. In 1806 he was not listed, but a Sarah Hensley was, and she is probably his widow.

Larkin's last entry on the land records was 1802. In 1803 he was not listed. What happened to his 89 acre tract? He must have sold it. I read the entire 1803 tax list to see who had a "new" 89 acre tract, and the only listing in all of Washington County for 89 acres was Frederick Fulkerson who had a new tract marked "from Cornelius Carmack" which means it was deeded from Carmack to Fulkerson sometime within the previous 12 months or so. Based on that I don't see that as being the same land Larkin owned, but it is possible, especially if it changed hands twice before 1803. I have not checked the deed records yet. Could the Scott County court case (see below) have anything to do with this land? I read the 1801 land tax list and neither Mr. Carmack nor Mr. Fulkerson had an 89 acre tract that year. In 1802 Frederick Fulkerson had the 89 acres already, and it was marked "C. Carmack" so it is the same land he was listed with in 1803. Since Larkin himself was listed in 1802 with 89 acres, the two tracts can't be the same land, unless taxed twice in the same year.

Larkin Hensley must have died (or moved away) before 1806, for he was not listed on that tax list. As noted earlier, an apparent widow Sarah Hensley appears on the 1806 tax list. She had no tithes, 1 horse and no slaves. The number of horses match what Larkin had back in 1805, but that isn't definitive proof she was his widow.

This same year (1806), Larkin and Sarah's last child was born on 17 Mar 1806, and his birth was reported as being in Sullivan Co., TN. This suggests that Sarah was in Sullivan Co, TN in early 1806, either visiting relatives (several Childress families were living there at that time), or perhaps she was living there, already in her widowhood. The 1806 tax list showing her in Washington Co, VA could have been taken before March, or she could have been going back and forth.

Sarah and her children had all apparently moved to Knox Co, TN by 1808, for in that year her daughter Agness was married there, and the following year, daughter Rhoda married there.

Unfortunately, the 1810 census for Tennessee was lost, so I can't tell if Sarah was living there at that time. Since her children were marrying in Knox Co, TN in 1808, 1809, and 1816, I strongly suspect she was there during those years.

Meanwhile, back in Virginia, Scott County was formed from the western part of Washington County in 1815. This included the majority of Ketrons Creek where the family had previously lived, though a small portion (about 1 mile) of the creek was still in Washington County. They no longer lived there, but this change is important as you will see in the following court case.

In the February 1819 term of Scott County, Virginia Court, an interesting suit was brought by Sarah and her children against a variety of people. The case was started before this date for a Court record dated 12 Mar 1818 refers to it in regard to the Benham orphans.

I have three different versions of this. The first was sent to me type written, many years ago, and it seems to be from a different book, the typist labeled it "Scott Co, VA Minute Book # 1 1815-1818", document dated 8 Sep 181- (last number not legible, but probably 1815, 1816, 1817 or 1818). The person who sent this to me originally later said they didn't remember sending it to me and didn't know where it had come from. It is almost identical to the later document, but with four exceptions. First, this document states that the names were the heirs of Larkin Hensley (the two other version don't say that), secondly, this one left off daughter Susannah Hensley, and thirdly, this document had Ichabod Hensley listed in a different sequence within the names, listed as the 3rd name, where the other documents list him 2nd to last. Fourthly, Ichabod has a middle initial of "C" on the other two documents. Assuming that this is a verbatim copy (which I can't say for sure that it is), this is very significant for a variety of reasons which I'll explain later.

Heirs of Larkin Hensley, deceased - Sarah Hensley, Abednego Casteel and wife Agnes (formerly Hensley), Daniel Casteel and wife Rhoda (formerly Hensley), Ichabod Hensley, Polly Hensley, Catherine Hensley, Samuel Hensley, Nancy Hensley, Thomas Hensley -vs-

Polly Benham, widow of William Benham, deceased, John, Samuel, Joel, Catherine, Sampson, Isaac, heirs of William Benham, deceased, and Elizabeth Godsey, heir of Gilbert Godsey, deceased, Catherine Johnson, widow of Thomas Johnson, deceased. The defendants do not live in Virginia. (Scott Co, VA Minute Book # 1, 1815-1818 as transcribed by someone anonymously, possibly Ruthe Muench)

I have two original copies from different books, which I've typed verbatim. One in the index (or a judgment book), and then a fuller version in the actual minutes. First the Index or judgment entry:

(In Chancery) Feb T 1819 1-385

Now, the full entry from the actual minutes (the right margin of my copy is slightly cropped, so some data missing:

Now, having quoted the above case several things become clear. One is that the case was not resolved at this time. Two, nothing in these two records state what the case is about. Chancery cases can involve a number of things, often to do with estates. Third, who were the defendants, and how were they connected to one another, and to the plaintiffs?

We know from other sources that Polly Benham, wife of William Benham, deceased, is a daughter of Samuel Hensley , suspected brother of Larkin, but other than her and her children, the others are not heirs of Samuel Hensley. My personal belief is that all of these are somehow connected via the Benham family. That might lead to the conclusion that Larkin Hensley's wife Sarah was a Benham, but I can't prove that. It is possible that the defendants were not directly related to each other, but collectively, they all owed Larkin Hensley money or something as heirs of someone he did business with.

The above record is also useful in another way. The children of Sarah were apparently named in descending order (oldest to youngest), and that can be confirmed from other sources. That helps to prove we are talking about the same set of children. For instance, using the same list as above, and adding the known birth dates, we can see that this list must be referring to this same set of Hensleys (which is beyond doubt, in my view, anyway): Sarah Hensley (ca 1760), Abednego Casteel and Agness (1780/90), his wife, Daniel Casteel and Rhoda (1780/90), his wife, Susannah Hensley (1790/1800), Polly Hensley (1798), Catherine Hensley, Samuel Hensley (1801), Nancy Hensley (1800/10), Ichabod C. Hensley, and Thomas Hensley (1806). The only flaw in this is that Ichabod was listed in a different place in the first version of this document, but that actually helps, as the only Ichabod who really fits in this family was born ca 1780/90, which works at that point in the listing.

Sarah (---) Hensley was still alive as of 1819, based on the Court record quoted above. Unfortunately, the record does not give her place of residence, though it seems very likely she was living in Knox Co, TN at that time.

The 1820 census was lost for all of Eastern Tennessee, so I can not locate Sarah and her children, though it seems obvious from other records that they were in Knox Co, TN then. I did find a "Saray Hansley" on an 1820 tax list in Morgan Co., AL, however, I have no idea if this was our Sarah. It should be noted that Ichabod Hensley moved to that county about that time, though whether this Ichabod is her son, or another Ichabod, has not been firmly established.

In 1822, Sarah's daughter Mary married in Blount Co, TN (borders Knox Co, TN). In 1823, Sarah's children Samuel and Nancy Hensley were married (in what appears to be a double ceremony) in Knox Co, TN.

It is not known when Sarah died, though it was after 1819, and probably in Knox Co, TN.

Children of Larkin Hensley. Larkin and Sarah had nine children as named in the 1819 Court case in Scott County, Virginia. If there were any other children, they probably died young. They were listed in age order in the 1819 court case (oldest to youngest). Except perhaps Ichabod.

Larkin Hensley received an 89 acre grant in Washington Co, VA in 1782 as an assignee of Loven Bledsoe. This was for land Catherine's Fork. As an assignee, that means the land wasn't his. Larkin was not found on the 1787 VA census, but he did appear on the 1788 tax list in Washington Co, VA. I base his birth (of before 1767) on this record, since he should have been at least 21 by then. He may have been 21 in 1782, so that would make him born before 1761. Larkin was on the Washington Co, VA tax lists for 1788, 1790, 1792, 1795, and 1797. In 1797 he received an 89 acre grant on Catherine's Creek. This may be the same land of the 1782 grant, but this time in his name. He was listed on the Washington Co, VA tax lists for 1804 and 1805.□□He was not listed on the 1806 tax list, but a Sarah Hensley was listed that year, and that was her first time. I suspect that this is his widow. Of the other Hensley's listed in 1805, all of them were still there in 1806, except for Larkin and Ichabod. We know that Ichabod moved to Knox Co, TN about that time, so Sarah can't be his widow. So that leaves only Larkin as prime candidate. Sarah was not on the 1807 Washington Co, VA tax list. We know she had moved to Sullivan Co, TN sometime in 1806 (her last child, Thomas was born that year in that county), and by 1808 had moved to Knox Co, TN (her oldest daughter Agness, married in 1808 in Knox Co, TN).□□An interesting Court record was found in Scott Co, VA regarding this family (Scott County was formed in 1815 from part of Washington Co, VA). In this record, it names Sarah, plus all of her children, so this effectively proves this family. The only sticking point, is that we don't know what the case is about. Here is the entry from the Scott Co, VA Court Minutes:□□Feb T, 1819 Scott Co, VA Court 1-385, In Chancery

There are a lot of records which are for Barnabus Arthurs. I cannot identify which goes to whom. I can only break them out, as close as possible to those who have connections in one way or another with the Francis Hale/Hail/Haile line (Stephen's father). One bit of information that you need to be aware of is that there were several Hale lines in Franklin and Bedford Counties. One early line was the Nicholas Hale line.

I have worked this line in the past because there is at least one source (McClellar) who says Francis was a son of Nicholas. This IS NOT so. Also, a book called ROOTS IN VIRGINIA says he is a cousin of this line. I have both lines back to the mid 1600s - Nicholas line resided in Lancaster Co., VA and Francis' line resided in Essex Co. VA. Even though part of Essex was formed from Lancaster, I can find no proof to substantiate the claims that the original Nicholas had any children other than Nicholas, Mary, and George. Some sources say that Richard (Francis' grandfather) and John Hale of Bent Mountain were also his children. There is absolutely nothing to prove this and it is not generally recognized as fact by any Hail/Hale researchers who have been researching the line for any period of time.

The whole point to this is that, there is a Talbot connection with the Nicholas Hale line but absolutely none that I am even remotely aware of with the Francis/Stephen line. This is why the Arthurs are also so confusing. I think there are two different lines of Arthurs. I've never been able to sort them out. but I'll give you what I can---as disjointed as it is and maybe someone out there has the need info.

The following is information about Arthurs which appear to be more connected with the Nicholas Hale line:
Barnabus Arthur md Martha Talbot May 26, 1755 Bedford Co., VA She was the dau of Col. Matthew Talbot and Jane Clayton. He was the son of William and Ann (?) Arthur
Children: Matthew, William, Martha Jr., Jane, Talbot, and Lucy
Died between April, 1777 and Nov 1779 as he is mentioned as exec of father's will on first date and Jane is listed as the dau of Martha when she marries on the 2nd date; after the death of Barnabus, the family moved to GA.
(Jane married John Routon-this surname is connected early with the Nicholas line) Lucy married James McKelroy. They were living in Wilkes Co., GA in 1799 when she and her husband relinquished right to fathers' estate to her brother William. (This info came from the Arthur Family Newsletter)

The follow is what info I have on the Talbots:
Matthew Talbot-son Matthew Talbot born c 1729
Matthew Talbot (1729) married Mary Hale (who was the widow of Mr. Day or Dale). She was the dau of Nicholas Hale Jr. and Ann Long. Mary was born July 7, 1730 in Baltimore, MD and d 1785 in Watauga Settlement. (He remarried Agnes (?)).
Children of Matthew and Mary (Hale-Day, Dale) Talbot: Mary, Hale, Thomas, Edmund, Clayton, Matthew
According to McKellar (how correct this is--I don't know) they lived in Bedford Co., then Campbell Co., then Washington Co., NC (now TN)
DESCENDANTS OF 1ST FAMILIES (book predominately on Nicholas Hale line and not always correct) mentions Cumberland Parish, Lunenburg Co. I do not know where Martha Talbot fits into this lineage.

The following information about Arthurs appears to be more connected with the Francis/Stephen line:

From the Raney Collection: (oops, missed the date) George Haynes and Lucy his wife of Franklin Co. convey to Barnabas Arthur of Bedford Co. for 130 pounds, 200 acres on Bull Creek, adjoining Aquilla Greer, Abram & Isac David, Robert Powell, Wm. RECOLLECTIONS OF MICAJAH HALE (grandson of Stephen Hail Sr & Nancy Arthur)
This is not the whole thing; it is very long but here is the part about Nancy (Arthur) Hail:

"The four or five families, of which I am to speak, claim their ancestry from Adam and Eve, old enough, and about as good as any. Adam and Eve were certainly a little better than a majority of their offspring; more moral, better Christians. It is said that they repented of their sins, prayed to be forgiven, that Jesus presented their prayers to his Father, and requested that they be forgiven, which request was granted. Adam was our representative. We have all joined Adam's party as sinners against God and many have not repented.

My grandfather, Stephen Hail, married Nancy Arthur and moved from eastern Virginia to Bedford County, Virginia in an early day. They had seven sons and three daughters; Thomas, James William, Stephen, Laban, Benjamin and John, Anne that married Robert Woodcock, Susannah who married William Kemp, and Sarah who married William Johnson. Stephen Hail was of honest report, a thrifty, plentiful farmer, and a good citizen. His house was a place of resort for his children and also for the neighbors, so much so that his home was called the center of hte world. This shows his popularity as a neighbor. I remember seeing a large turkey hanging by a cord before a hot fite, from the mantle to barbecue or roast or cook a vessel while churning was going on, a vessel nearly full. His wife was an exemplary woman, an affectionate wife and mother and excellent housekeeper. They were both members of the Baptist Church. His property at his death amounted to about $2200. John Moody, my mother's father married Susannah Ames. He was an honest, well to do farmer. They had four sons and four daughters; George, Samuel, John and Martin; Jane who married Thomas Hail , Mary who married Stephen Hail, Lucy that married William Shadowen, and Elizabeth who married William Humphries...."

* Sons of Stephen and Nancy Arthur Hail

NOTE:
Stephen's approximate birthdate is based on the earliest record we have for him to date which is the inventory of Samuel Low, dated Mar 24, 1767 (Bedford Co., VA). By Micajah's account, Stephen and Nancy married before coming to Bedford Co. which is pretty much what was suspected. We have already established the fact that John and Rebecca Arthur and Francis Hail were in Caroline Co. at the same time. And they were probably pretty close to the same age by what I have been able to determine. Based on the fact that Thomas who md Jenny is supposed to be the son of Rebecca and John, he could not have been born in 1730 in Bedford Co because Rebecca and John were in Caroline Co.in 1754. Also, I don't think Bedford Co. was formed until 1754 or so. Maybe someone who has access to that information could check on it.

These are the reasons why I think that Nancy (Arthur) Hail is probably not the daughter of Thomas.

1. Barnabus Arthur, Jonathan Pratt, and George Bowles were witnesses to the will of Francis Hail, father of Stephen.

2. James Ayres and Barnabus Arthur were securities for the executors of Francis Hail. Aug 28, 1780 (Sons Stephen and Lewis Hail were executors.)

3. June 23, 1783 Barnabus Arthur, James Greer, Stephen Hail appraise the estate of Stephen English. Stephen English was md to Dinah Haynes and he was the son of John English. Their son, William, md Adara Dudley, grand dau of Francis and Adara Hail. Her mother was Mary E. Hail. Adara (Dudley) English md 2nd William Kemp. She was his second wife, his first was Susanna Hail, dau of Stephen Hail, Sr.

4. Nov 7, 1786 Barnabus Arthur, Parmenas Haynes, Stephen Hail inventory estate of John Farguson. (Parmenas Haynes married Elizabeth Baber; they had a son Robert born in Bedford Co., Nov 2, 1770- I do not know if she ties into the Babers who married into Thomas Arthur's line-she is the only Baber I show in my database.)

   John Farguson was married to Mary (?). They had the following children:

   A. Jeremiah m Jemima Phelps
      Children:
      1. Jesse md Elizabeth Hatcher (daughter of Sarah Hail & Elijah Hatcher)
      2. Nancy was the 2nd wife of Elijah Hatcher, son of Edward Hatcher & Sarah Farley) Elijah's first wife was Sarah Hale (dau of Richard & Elizabeth Hail, grandau of Francis & Adara.)
      3. Mary md Stephen Semones
      4. Elizabeth md Josiah Maxey Jr. (son of Josiah Maxey & Phebe)
      5. Jeremiah md Judith Johnson (she was dau of John Johnson & Susannah Hackworth)
      6. Thomas md Cynthia Snyder
      7. John P. md Sophia Heptinstall

   B. Pleasant
   C. William
   D. King
   E. John b ca 1750
   F. Isham b ca 1765

5. Jan 24, 1791 William Truman, Lewis Arthur, Stephen Hail inventory the estate of Reubin Hatcher (I have already sent you information on the Hatchers). William Truman m Mary (?). They had a dau named Gartry who married John Radford Oct 17, 1794. I have no information on children, however, his father was Richard Radford and his mother was Ann (?). Richard Radford who m Ann was the son of Richard Radford and Elizabeth Maxey who was the dau of Edward Maxey Sr. and Susanna (Gates?). There is also a Radford connection with the Cragheads (my direct line) who connect both with the Maxeys and the Richard Haile's (bro of Stephen) son James E. William Truman's will is dated Aug 17, 1796 Bedford Co. His executors are Henry Woodcock (Henry's son, Robert md Anna Hail, dau of Stephen Hail and Nancy; the Woodcock line is pretty intensive with a lot of major connections to allied lines of Maxeys and Craigheads, etc.) and John Radford Jr.

6. Jan 23, 1801 Julius Saunders, Stephen Hale, and Lewis Arthur appraise estate of Thomas Hunt. I don't know a lot about Thomas Hunt. He shows up here and there and was a witness to the will of Joseph Greer, Oct 12, 1766; also along with Edward Hore, John Booth (Booths have Maxey ties) witnessed the will of Edward Hatcher, Sept 1, 1781. Julius Saunders was md to Jane Hughes. He is involved in numerous deeds with the Moodys, Boyd, Humphries, Stephen Hair Jr., Thomas Hail, Susannah Ames, William Shadoan, James Greer. Jane's parents were Rees Hughes and Lucy Gardner. Julius' parents were Jemina Woodward and Julius Saunders; they also had a dau named Jemima and she md Jesse Hughes. The Saunders were from Albemarle Co.

7. Sept 6, 1809 Barnabus Arthur, for money paid by Stephen Haile of Caintucky, gives up all right and title to the lands Stephen Hale made to Jesse Miles. (I do not know who Jesse Miles was-only that Susanna Miles md Benjamin Hail (son of Stephen and Nancy). Her parents were Isham Miles Johnson and Elizabeth Carter. Maybe Ernie has an idea of who he was.

What we seem to have here is a family cluster-they keep interacting with each other and can usually be traced back to Stephen Hail Sr. somehow, even if it is a round-about way. So far, I am unable to do that with Thomas. It appears that there may have been some surnames that could tie in but very few; I will go back in a see what I can find out that way in regard to Thomas. The facts show, however, that Barnabus consistently shows up in the records connecting him to the Stephen Hail line while I have not found one mention of Thomas. This does not indicate a close relationship (or any at all at this point) between Nancy Arthur/Stephen Hail and Thomas Arthur. I'll do my best to state my reasoning and if anyone can see a flaw in it or has additional information that might help out here-then please let me know:

1. According to the general concensus, Barnabus Arthur was born ca 1735. Information given me by Beverly Wolfe Chickering (now deceased) estimated his birthdate as 1725. I have no idea how she arrived at this; it could be iffy because that would make him 90 yrs old at his death in 1815. It also seems a little odd that he would remarry at the age of 76.
2. Stephen Hail Sr. was probably the youngest (or at least one of the youngest of Francis & Adara). Now Stephen Sr.'s estimated birthdate is 1745 because he first shows up March 24, 1767as having appraised the estate of Samuel Low. We don't know when they married but according to Micajah's Recollections-before moving to Bedford Co. (probably Caroline Co. since there are records for both families there, and in the same time period). Although Thomas is thought to be the oldest of Stephen & Nancy's children, a more definite date can be estimated by the marriage date of James Lewis Hail and Nancy Craghead-July 20, 1789. James L's birth would be estimated at 1769-therefore, we could assume that Nancy Arthur was born between 1749-1751. Stephen and Nancy's youngest child appears to have been Benjamin who purchased land of his brother William Hail 160 3/4 acres Oct 22, 1802 in Bedford (on Craddocks Creek) which was bordered by Stephen Hail, Woodcock, and Nichols. His marriage to Susannah Miles was on Sept 23, 1805 so at the very latest, he was not born after 1785. That would have made Nancy's age between 34 and 36 years of age at the birth of her last child which is reasonable. Stephen Hail Jr. md Mary Moody Dec 19, 1803-estimated birthdate 1783. This is not proved at all but the third youngest child of Nancy and Stephen appears to be John who md Elizabeth (?). I have no marriage date for him but was given an estimate birthdate of 1780. Prior to that, we have son Labon Larkin Hail who md Mary Hail (orphan of Richard Hail and Elizabeth; Stephen was her guardian) on ca Oct 7, 1799, making his approximate birthdate 1779.

   Nancy Ann Arthur (dau of Thomas) married Reubin West Mar 5, 1783. This is coinciding with the the approximate time period in which Nancy & Stephen's last two or three children were born.

In my mind, I am very convinced that Nancy was either the daughter of Barnabus (since there are no exact birth or early marriage dates) or his sister, or something. There is something that is missing. But the close relationship between the Hails and the Barnabus Arthur line cannot be ignored. I hope we can all help each other.

JOHANNES KESLER, THE IMMIGRANT

JOHANNES (in German, or JOHN in English) KESLER, b. 8 Mar. 1728 (or 28 Feb. if the old-style calendar is used) Germany or Switzerland; d. 24 Mar. 1823 Botetourt Co. VA; bur. Old Glade Creek Cem., Blue Ridge VA; m. ca 1755 Eva DOROTHEA LEMAN, b. 24 Jan. 1734 Montgomery Co. PA; d. 24 July 1798 Bot. Co. VA; bur. Old Glade Creek Cem.

We do not know where Johannes was born. He spoke German, so we assume he grew up in Germany or the German portion of Switzerland. The Palatine region of the Rhine Valley is his most likely birthplace, since it was the area from which most of the German-speaking immigrants to Pennsylvania came. The Protestant Reformation had also been most successful here, and we know that Johannes was a member of the Lutheran Church.

Johannes could not write, and we find his name spelled many different ways in the records. Since "Kesler" is on his tombstone, this spelling will be used, except where enclosed within quotation marks to show an exact spelling in a particular record.

We do not know for sure when he arrived in America. The earliest documentation of him occurred when his daughter was baptized in 1758, but he had probably been here several years by that time. While we do not know specifically why Johannes came to America, the general history of early German immigration provides an insight into probable reasons. In 1681 King Charles II of England gave William Penn 40,000 square miles of land to liquidate a debt he owed Penn's father. In order to settle the land, Penn and his agents visited the Rhine provinces to recruit men to help found a state in which religious and civil liberty would prevail. The first settlement was Germantown, founded in 1683.

During the reign of George II, the English government wanted to increase the Protestant population in the colonies, so in 1729 the Pennsylvania Provincial Council (appointed by the King) passed a law requiring "oaths of abjuration and fidelity." These required the signer "to renounce the doctrine that princes excommunicated by the Pope could be deposed and to declare that no foreign person should have any ecclesiastical authority in the British Empire." Signers specifically declared allegiance to George II and abjured (renounced) the Scottish Catholic, James III, who also claimed the throne of England. Because these oaths were politically important, they were signed in bound books, which have been preserved. The passenger lists of the ships which imported the immigrnts might have provided information about the geographical origin of each passenger, but unfortunately most of those documents have been lost or destroyed.

Long wars, and heavy taxes to pay for them, also prompted many men to leave Germany in the mid-to-late 18th century. The economy of the area was precarious, due to extra-ordinary winters and crop failures. While there was not much actual religious persecution, religious quarrels and unrest were common. Older men were hungry for land and young men for adventure. Penn's recruiting, along with intensive advertising by the British government that promised free passage in exchange for indenture, led many to follow friends and neighbors to America. (From Walter A. Knittle's Early Eighteenth Century Palatine Emigration, p. 31.)

We assume that Johannes arrived at the port of Philadelphia, where oaths of abjuration and fidelity taken by some 30,000 immigrants have been published in Pennsylvania German Pioneers by Ralph B. Strassburger and William J. Hinke. In these preserved recprds we find only two men named Johannes Kesler or Kessler who arrived prior to 1758:

"At the Court House at Philadelphia, Thursday, 9th (1749).
Present: Thomas Lawrence, Esquire, Mayor.
The Foreigners whose names are underwritten, imported in the Snow Good Intent, Benjamin Boswell, Master, from Rotterdam but last from Cowes in England, did this day take the usual Oaths to the Government. 26 p. List. 76 Persons." (pp. 425-6, List 145C). The 24th of 26 names on this list is Johannes (X) Kessler (signed by a mark).

"At the State House at Philadelphia, Thursday, the Fifth Day of September 1751.
Present: The Worshipful William Plumsted, Esqr, Mayor.
The Foreigners whose Names are underwritten, Imported in the Billander, Captain Richgate Castle, from Rotterdam and last from Cowes in England, did this day take and subscribe the usual Qualification. N. 91. 130 whole Freights. 30 Roman Catholics. Messrs. Stedman." (pp. 452-33, List 162C). The 36th of 91 names on this list is Johannes (+) Kessler, also signed by a mark. On p. 455 the billander (ship) is identified as the "Elizabeth."

We believe the "Johannes Kessler" who arrived on the "Good Intent" in 1749 actually was Johannes Kistler, who was living in Philadelphia in Jan. 1750, and apparently had not been in this country long at that time. No one by the name of Johannes Kistler appears on any list in Strassburger and Hinke, but since he could not write, his name would have been written by the ship's Captain or some other Englishman with little knowledge of German pronunciations or spellings. We have concluded, therefore, that our immigrant ancestor most likely is the "Johannes Kessler" who arrived in 1751 on the "Elizabeth."

One of the best accounts of early German immigration into Pennsylvania is given in the Introduction to Pennsylvania German Pioneers by William J. Hinke, who quotes extensively from a report by Rev. Henry Melchior Muehlenberg. Rev. Muehlenberg came to America in 1742 to become pastor of the Trappe Evangelical Lutheran Church, where he later baptized two of Johannes Kesler's children. This report, which is summarized in the next four paragraphs, includes a good description of the journey that one German immigrant, Gottlieb Mittleberger, made to Pennsylvania in 1750. We can assume that Johannes' experiences were not much different.

The typical Palatine immigrant first traveled from his home to the Rhine River, then down the Rhine to Rotterdam or some other port. From there he sailed to an English port (most often at Cowes on the Isle of Wight), then across the Atlantic to Philadelphia. The journey usually lasted six months--from early May to late October. The Rhine boats from Heilbronn to Holland had to pass 26 customhouses. At each of them the ships were examined at the convenience of the customhouse officials, thus consuming four to six weeks at great expense to the passengers. Ships were also detained five to six weeks in Holland and another week or two in England while going through customs and waiting for favorable winds.

The real misery began with the long voyage, which lasted seven weeks at best, and 10 to 12 weeks with unfavorable winds. Passengers were packed densely, without adequate food or water, and many contracted diseases such as dysentery, scurvy, typhoid or smallpox. Children were usually the first to be stricken, and 32 died on Mittleberger's ship. He wrote: "One day, just as we had a heavy gale, a woman in our ship, who was to give birth and could not under the circumstances of the storm, was pushed through the porthole and dropped into the sea, because she was far in the rear of the ship and could not be brought forward. .... The misery reaches the climax when a gale rages for two or three nights and days, so that everyone believes that the ship will go to the bottom with all human beings on board. In such a visitation the people cry and pray most piteously. When in such a gale, the sea rages and surges, so that the waves rise often like mountains one above the other, and often tumble over the ship, so that one fears to go down with the ship; when the ship is constantly tossed from side to side by the storm and waves, so that no one can either walk, or sit, or lie, and the closely packed people in the berths are thereby tumbled over each other, both the sick and the well--it will be readily understood that many of these people, none of whom have been prepared for the hardships, suffer so terribly from them that they do not survive."

When a ship finally arrived at Philadelphia, more delays occurred. A health officer visited the ship, and if any persons with infectious diseases were discovered, the ship was ordered to be moved one mile from the city. In 1754 the undertaker presented to the Philadelphia Council a statement for 253 burials of Palatines.

In 1769 Rev. Muehlenberg sent a report to Germany, stating that after much delay one ship after another arrived at Philadelphia at the beginning of a severe winter. Merchants received lists of "freights" (persons who had not paid for their passage) and the agreements they had signed in Holland, together with bills for their travel down the Rhine and advances for provisions they received on the ships. After being examined by a physician, the men were led to the city to take the oath of allegiance and then brought back to the ships. Announcements were printed in newspapers, stating how many new arrivals would be sold. The few who had money, or obtained a loan from well-to-do friends, were released. The ship then became a market-place where buyers bargained for a certain number of years and days of service from each freight. Upon paying the newcomer's passage and other debts, the purchaser received a document from the government which made the immigrant his property for a definite period.

Many of those so indentured did not serve their time, and newspapers carried ads asking for their return. One of these was Adam Rader, a harness maker, who later became the father-in-law of two of Johannes' granddaughters (See #2D and #2E). He ran away to Woodstock VA and later built a harness shop, which still stands in Botetourt Co.

No records have been found to show that Johannes was indentured, but only a small percentage of such documentation exists today. (It is interesting to note that an "indenture" is a form of contract used at that time. With no copying machines or typewriters and carbon paper, the contract was written on the top half of each page and copied on the bottom half. It was then "indented" by tearing each page in half jaggedly. The top half was given to the "party of the first part," and the lower half to the "party of the second part." Even a man who could not read, knew that the contract was genuine if the dents on his half matched the dents on the other person's half. Some of the phraseology used in indentures has long survived the practice of indenting.)

There is a substantial period of time between the assumed date of Johannes's immigration (1751) and the probable date of his marriage (1755), when he was 27 years old. It is highly unlikely that he would have waited so long to marry unless he had spent most or all of the preceding few years as an indentured servant. Four (or even six) years would not have been an unreasonable length of time to work off the cost of his passage.

Very few records exist for 18th century Pennsylvania marriages, and Johannes' is no exception. Baptismal records, land deeds, and side-by-side graves clearly prove that his wife was Eva Dorothea Leman. According to tradition, Jacob was their first son, though we have been unable to find any proof. If he was their son, as assumed, the probable date of their marriage would be a year before his birth, or 1755. The only records of Johannes and Dorothea found in Pennsylvania are for three baptisms at the Augustus Evangelical Lutheran Church at Trappe, New Providence Twp. PA. (Magazine of the Pa. German Soc., 6:228, 235). Their daughter, "Susanna Kessler," was baptized 22 Oct. 1758, with Susanna Jungling as sponsor. Their son, "Johannes Kessler," was baptized 19 Apr. 1761, with the parents as sponsors. In 1762 they were sponsors at the baptism of Susanna Jungling, a daughter of Christian and Susanna. Sponsors at baptisms were often relatives, but no other connection with the Junglings has been found.

Presumably Johannes farmed in Pennsylvania, as that is what we know he did the rest of his life. However, he did not own any land of record there, probably because he could not afford to buy any at this time. He apparently heard about cheap land on the western frontier, and about 1763 he and his young family headed for Frederick Co. MD, approximately 100 miles on a straight line, but much farther by horse, over the mountainous terrain. On 25 Feb. 1764 "John Kaislaer" received a patent for 25 acres of land called "Good Will," near the present village of Tyrone, five miles southeast of Taneytown, and approximately 20 miles from Gettysburg PA. When Carroll Co. MD was formed from Frederick and Baltimore Counties in 1837, this land was in the new county. Johannes' patent is on record in the Maryland Hall of Records in Annapolis.

On 22 Nov. 1769, he acquired from Valentine Baist 13.75 acres of "Friendship Agreement." On the same date he and John Froshouer acquired from Baist an additional 5 acres of Friendship Agreement to be used solely for a church and school. On 15 Oct. 1770, "John Casler" acquired from Philip Beamer, for 5 shillings, a portion of a tract appropriately called "Redlands." It contained 59 1/4 acres and was adjacent to "Good Will" (Deed Book N, pp. 457-8). His final acquisition in Maryland was 48 acres of "Runnymede," which he bought 4 June 1776 from Upton Scott, an Annapolis physician. All four farm tracts were sold to Zachariah Albaugh by a single deed on 7 April 1791 for 447 pounds/2/6. The deed (Bk WR 9, p. 728) was signed "John Kesler" by his mark in the form of a "K," as were his later deeds. His wife, Dorothy, appeared before two justices of the peace who noted that "being by us privately examined apart from and out of the hearing of her said husband she relinquished all her right and title of dower of, in and to the within mentioned lands and premises and said she did it freely and voluntarily without being compelled thereto by fear, threats of, or ill usage from her said husband, or for fear of incurring his displeasure." (While this was merely standard legal jargon, it does say something about the status of women 200 years ago.) Following this sale, Johannes and Dorothea went to Botetourt Co. VA, where they spent the remainder of their lives.

Johannes and his family lived in Maryland during the entire period of the American Revolution. His son John (#2) served in Capt. George Striker's company, enlisting when he was not quite 16. This service has sometimes been attributed erroneously to Johannes, who was by then too old for active military duty. Johannes did, however, serve as a member of the Committee on Observation (Maryland Historical Magazine, 2:169). This service qualifies his descendants for membership in the DAR and SAR. T. C. Williams, in his History of Frederick County, p. 87, says that "the Committee on Observation exercised all the functions of government during the turbulent times from the date of its organization to the formation of the State government in 1777. It executed the laws, tried and decided cases. That a Committee of citizens, responsible to no one and with no appeal from their decisions, should have exercised their great powers with such a spirit of moderation and justice and wisdom is enough to give each of them a distinguished place in the history of Frederick County."

The Committee saw that the ban on importing and using tea was enforced, kept roads repaired, guarded English prisoners of war, raised money, appointed officers, and recruited men to fight under General Washington. One of the companies raised was Capt. Creasap's, described by Williams as follows: "It was a company of 130 of the back woods men. They started on their long march to Boston armed with tomahawks, rifles, and dressed in deer skins and moccasins and treading as lightly as the savages themselves. They needed no baggage train nor equipment, save their blankets in which they wrapped themselves at night and then slept around the camp fire as contently as if they had been comfortably housed. As they marched to the field of battle, they could easily procure game almost in sufficient quantities for their support; and this, along with some parched corn, was the only provisions they had. Before starting on their march, the men gave the citizens of Maryland an exhibition of their marksmanship. A man would hold a target in his hand or between his knees for the others to aim at."

The Committee had to deal with the Dunkards and Mennonites, who, for religious reasons, wanted no part in the struggle taking place within the colonies. The Committee on Observation decided that everyone who enjoyed religious freedom and protection through law should contribute in some way. All who would not enlist in the companies being formed to fight were taxed 2 shillings and 6 pence per week.

Johannes' son John is thought to have been mustered out of service near Troutville VA. In any event, he saw and liked the Blue Ridge Mountains, as he acquired land in Botetourt Co. in 1785. This was the new frontier, which was settled rapidly when the "Great Wagon Road" from Philadelphia to western Maryland was extended down the Shenandoah Valley to Fincastle VA and as far south as Albany GA. From Fincastle, a branch road went into Kentucky and Tennessee. A treaty with the Indians had made this road safe, and many German and Swiss people traveled down it to lands very much like their home country. John Jr.'s sister Susan went to Virginia about the same time he did. Jacob Kesslar, whom we assume was their brother, also arrived there in 1785 or before. We do not know whether some of them returned to visit the family in Maryland, or merely kept in touch by mail, but Johannes and the rest of his family joined them in Botetourt Co. VA immediately after selling his land in Maryland in 1791.

On 6 May 1791, "John Kessler" paid David Quarles 135 pounds for 100 acres of land "lying on the waters" (that is, land in the drainage area) of Glade Creek. (Bot. Co. Deed Bk 4:323). This tract was in what is now the southeastern tip of Botetourt Co., just a few miles from the present Blue Ridge Parkway. On 15 Nov. 1794, he paid David Quarles 300 pounds for another 250 acres lying on both sides of a branch of Glade Creek in the gap of the Blue Ridge. On the same date he bought from Quarles 15 acres "adjoining his present land" for 120 pounds (Deed Bk 5:417, 454). On 14 Jan. 1800, "John Keslar," then a widower, conveyed to his neighbor, Jacob Noftsinger, for the sum of $500, the 100 acres he had acquired in 1791 (Bk 7:81). Some have thought that Noftsinger might be his son-in-law, but no evidence has been found to support such an assumption.

On 29 Aug. 1801 Johannes received a new patent for 160 acres "on the waters" of Glade Creek. On 2 Apr. 1805 he combined in one survey all 430 acres of his land, including 100 acres which he had conveyed to his son Daniel on 9 Oct. 1798 (Deed Bk 6:569). This also appears on page 359 of the Surveyor's Book to show the division of his land among his sons Daniel, Ben and Abram. On 12 Mar. 1806 Johannes conveyed to his son Benjamin 190.5 acres, valued at $1143, next to properties owned by John Plain, Jacob Noftsinger, and Mr. Flook.

On the same date Johannes conveyed to his son Abraham 141 acres, valued at $564, adjoining land on the Gap Road. The deeds provided that Ben and Abram were to pay Daniel enough to make the division equal. The deed to Daniel indicated that he had paid $550 to Johannes for the land. These conveyances within the family total 431.5 acres, while the original acquisitions totaled 425 acres, and the record of survey shows 430 acres. At that time in that terrain, such figures were probably considered close enough. It is a mystery why John, Jr. (Johannes' proven son by baptismal record) and Jacob, Christian and David (believed to be his sons) received no land. Since only Daniel was to receive cash "to make the division equal," it seems clear that only three sons received any land or other assets from their father, who left no will and whose estate was not probated.

Johannes is also listed in the Bot. Co. land records in 1813 and in 1822. Although he apparently never owned the land involved in the transactions, the entries are of interest because of the family connections. His neighbor, George Clare (spelled " Clear" in this record) had 130 acres in the inventory of his estate in 1790, but title papers to this land could not be found. The Clear heirs wanted to sell the land, so "John Keslar" included it in a survey of 590 acres dated 27 June 1806. He then obtained a patent for this land and later conveyed it to George and Charles Cook. Fifty acres, which had passed to Thomas and Allen Clear and Mary Clear Kessler, were conveyed on 4 Jan. 1813 (Deed Bk 11: 96) and 70 acres which passed to George, Frances (a male), Jacob and Daniel Clear, and to Benjamin and Margaret Clear Keslar, were conveyed on 11 May 1822 (Deed Bk 15:295-7). The other 10 acres are not accounted for. George Clare's second wife was Johannes' daughter Susan (#A), a woman considerably younger than himself. Margaret Clare, one of George's daughter by his first wife, married Johannes' son Ben (#5) and her sister, Mary, married Christian Kessler (#4). If George Clare had lived long enough to see his daughters wed, he would have found himself a father-in-law, as well as a brother-in-law, to both Ben and Christian!

Dorothea died and was buried on their farm. Her tombstone reads in German as follows: HIER LIEGET EVA DOROTHEA KESLER TOChTER DAS CHRISTIAN LEMAN, GEBOREN DEN 24 JANUARY, 1734 GESTORBENDEN 24 JULY 1798. Translated, it reads: Here lies Eva Dorothea Kesler, daughter of Christian Leman, born 24 July 1734, died 24 July 1798. Later, Johannes and other members of the family were buried there. This family plot became the nucleus of the well-kept Old Glade Creek Cemetery on a gently sloping hill, now in the town of Blue Ridge VA. It is part of the land Johannes conveyed to his son Ben in 1806. On 23 Feb. 1827 (Deed Bk 17:450) Benjamin Kessler and George Cook conveyed the cemetery to trustees, along with additional land to trustees for a meeting house and school. The Glade Creek Evangelical Lutheran Church was established there in 1829, but the present church building is several hundred feet away.

It is fortunate that Dorothea's tombstone bears her father's name, although there were at least three men in the Philadelphia area at the time of her birth who could have been that individual, and we are not certain which of them was her father. The name is spelled many ways, including Lehman, Leamon, Lemmon and Layman. The later is the most common form today. It is quite probable that Dorothea was the daughter of Christian Leamon, who left a will dated 11 Oct. 1748 in Upper Salford Twp., Philadelphia Co. PA. It named his wife, Anna Margaret, and seven children: John, Susannah, Anna, George, Dorothey, Jacob and Ludwick. The last five were not married at that time, so this Dorothey would be about the right age to have married Johannes Kesler. Our belief that this is Dorothea's family is strengthened by the fact that the names Susannah, George and Jacob appear frequently in the Kesler family. Christian was one of four elders from the Reformed Church who signed an agreement uniting it with a Lutheran congregation to form the Old Goshenhoppen Church on 16 Apr. 1744. This church stood less than ten miles from the Trappe Lutheran Church, which Johannes and Dorothea attended.

Johannes died 24 Mar. 1823. His tombstone in the Old Glade Creek Cemetery is very crudely cut. The lettering is a mixture of small and capital letters, with each "3" made backwards and Kesler divided between two lines. It is in English and reads: "To the memory of John Kesler departed this life March the 24 1823 aged 95 yare and 16 days." This stone is really more fitting for a hardy backwoods German immigrant who could neither read nor write than one like the elaborately decorated marker on the grave of his son Daniel's wife nearby. We can only surmise the hardships Johannes endured over his 95 years of life, but they must have been many.

We believe Johannes and Dorothea had nine children, but since Johannes conveyed all his land during his lifetime, there are no probate papers on file in Bot. Co. to prove who his children were. Baptismal and land records mentioned earlier provide proof for five of them. We believe that Jacob, Christian and David probably were his sons, and therefore have given their descendants numbers and included them in this history. (The reasons for assuming these three men descended from Johannes are given later in their respective biographical sketches.)

The 1790 census only partially confirms the assumptions about the makeup of Johannes' family. Since he did not leave Maryland until 1791, Johannes should be listed in that state's 1790 census. It does show one John Kesler living in Frederick Co. as head of a household consisting of 4 males over 16 (but none under 16) and 2 females. John Jr. and Susan were both married and living in Virginia. Jacob, if his son, was also in Virginia. Abram was only 12, and David, if his son, was about 15. Early census records are not always accurate, and the omission of any males under 16 is surely an error, since Abram is a proven son who would have been too young to be away from home. The other males, known to be over 16 but unmarried in 1790, would be Daniel, Christian and Ben. One of the females was his wife. The other might be an unrelated domestic servant or a second daughter, who perhaps later married Jacob Noftsinger, as some family members have thought. There are clearly enough years between Daniel and Christian's birth for one or even two more children.

Paul W. Kesler (#733.2), who interviewed many individuals in the early part of this century, believed that all Kes(s)lers who remained in Bot. Co. descended from Johannes. We have found, however, that the family designated as #8 in this book, and some others listed in the Appendix could not have been his descendants. 5 proven + 4 assumed ch:

JACOB KESSLAR, ASSUMED SON OF JOHANNES

1 JACOB B. KESSLAR, assumed s. of Johannes & Dorothea, b. 22 Sept. 1756 (or 22 Apr. 1757) prob. in the part of Philadelphia Co. PA now in Montgomery Co.; d. 20 July 1824 Bot. Co. VA; bur. Troutville; m. ELIZABETH SHEARER, b. 20 Mar. 1769 MD; d. 13 Aug. 1844 Bot. Co.; bur. Troutville.

The early family historians have listed Jacob as the oldest son of Johannes. However, there is no baptismal record for him at the Trappe Evangelical Lutheran Church, as there is for Susan and John in 1758 and 1761. Neither is there a baptizmal record for him at the nearby Goshenhoppen Church, where we think Dorothea's parents attended. Some records state that he was born in York Co., which, if true, would make it extremely doubtful that he was Johannes' son. However, the Jacob who was born in York Co. and served in the Revolutionary War died in Tippecanoe Co. IN in 1843, and his wife's name was Katherine. The fact that both Jacobs had a son George in Tippecanoe Co. probably accounts for the confusion. An account of Jacob's youngest son, George, in the 1883 History of Benton, Warren, Jasper & Newton Cos., Indiana, states that George went from Virginia to Tippecanoe Co. IN when he was 20 (in 1834) in the company of an unnamed uncle who was headed for Illinois. The only son of Johannes who went to Illinois was Daniel, who died in 1828. County histories are often in error on such details, so this does not disprove that Jacob was Johannes' son, though it adds to the doubt. The same history said George stopped at LaFayette IN to see his brothers, David and Daniel. David did go to Indiana, but if Daniel were there, it was for an extremely brief time, since he had children born in Virginia in 1830, 1832, 1834 and 1836.

Jacob acquired 152 acres of land on Catawba Creek, a branch of the James River, from Adam & Elizabeth Peck on 11 Oct. 1785, and he and his wife Elizabeth conveyed it to Peter Bouse for 90 pounds on 3 June 1797 (Deed Book 6:268). Jacob also acquired 150 acres on the waters of Tinker Creek and the head of Looney's Creek, adjoining land of Jacob Howry, from John and Elizabeth Kessler on 9 Apr. 1793 (Deed Book 4:477). The grantor was John, Jr. (#2), which is the strongest reason for believing that Jacob was the son of Johannes. Jacob owned this land for the rest of his life, and his son Daniel acquired it through deeds from his brothers and sisters for their 1/11 share in their father's estate.

His will is recorded in Book C, p. 570 at Fincastle and was probated in the Sept. 1824 court. It provided that all property remain in the possession of his wife Elizabeth until son George became of age, after which she received 1/3. David, Samuel and George received one cow, three sheep and one hog. His daughter Elizabeth received stock and household furniture in proportion to the amount received by the other heirs. The remainder was divided in 11 parts for the children, who were apparently listed in order of age.

Elizabeth's maiden name appears in the biography of her son Benjamin in the 1893 Portrait & Biographical Record of Montgomery, Parke & Fountain Cos. IN, which states that Jacob and Elizabeth were of strong constitution and fine physical appearance, their children receiving an "inheritance of vigorous health and robust physique for which the whole family were noted." 12 ch:

14 J. DANIEL KESSLAR, s. of Jacob and Elizabeth, b. 7 Feb. 1798 Bot. Co.; d. 27 Jan. 1853 Bot. Co.; bur. Troutville Cem., m. 3 Dec. 1827 Bot. Co. SUSANnah NININGER, b. 11 Apr. 1802 VA; d. 22 July 1881 Bot. Co.; bur. Troutville.

Daniel's Bible is still in existence and gives the birth dates of his children. In it he used the Kesslar spelling, the same as on his tombstone. It is difficult to tell whether his first initial is "T" or "J." It looks more like a "T," but is made sufficiently similar to Joseph, that we opt for the "J." He was a farmer, and acquired from his brothers and sisters between 1831 and 1835 all of their shares in his father's land. He was the only one of the nine sons who remained in Bot. Co. his entire lifetime. His will, dated 12 Dec. 1852, was recorded Feb. 1853 (Book I:6).

Susan was dau. of Christian Nininger and Elizabeth Snider (dau. of Peter). She owned 1600 acres of land. When the Union soldiers came through, she hid a bag of gold under the hog pen. The soldiers took the hogs but missed the gold. 9 ch:

JOHN KESLER, JR., SON OF JOHANNES

2 JOHN KESLER, Jr., s. of Johannes and Dorothea, b. 9 Feb. 1761 Montgomery Co. PA; d. 2 Jan. 1847 Botetourt Co. VA; bur. Brick Union Cem.; m.1 ca 1785 ELIZABETH (maiden name not known), b. 16 May 1761; d. 30 Sept. 1822; bur. Brick Union Cem.; m.2 Bot. Co. 2 Aug. 1824 Mrs. Mary (POLLY) Zimmerman, b. 21 May 1788; d. 16 Nov. 1825; bur. Brick Union Cem.

John was baptized as Johannes Kessler, s. of Johannes and Dorothea, on 19 Apr. 1761 at the Augustus Evangelical Lutheran Church at Trappe, New Providence Twp., Montgomery Co. PA, the sponsors being his parents. (Mag. of Pa. Germ. Soc., 6:235) His name has been spelled many different ways, but his tombstone reads "Kesler," which we use here except when citing specific documents. His first wife's tombstone reads "Kessler," while his second wife's is "Kesler." He used both the German name, "Johannes," and the English "John." To distinguish him from his father we shall refer to him as John.

John moved with his parents to Frederick Co. MD about 1763. John Kasler (also spelled Casler) enlisted in Capt. George Striker's 9th Md. Co. of Light Infantry 28 Jan. 1776 (Md. Archives, 18:19), and is said to have been mustered out of service near Troutville, Bot. Co. VA. In any event, he moved permanently to Bot. Co. about 1785. Whether he was married before or after arriving there has not been determined, as there is no marriage record either in Frederick Co. or Bot. Co. On 13 Sept. 1785 John Kessler "late of Frederick County, Maryland" acquired 300 acres of land on a branch of Looney's Creek in Bot. Co. from David Breckenridge (Deed Bk 3:443). This was the first land acquired by any Kessler in Bot. Co. He sold half of this land on 9 Apr. 1793 to Jacob Kessler for 75 pounds (Deed Bk 4:477). The land was described as lying on the waters of Tinker Creek and the head of Looney's Creek. He acquired several other tracts of land totalling approximately 1300 acres near Looney Creek, sometimes referred to as a branch of the James River, and near Howrytwon, northwest of Troutville. Between 1822 and 1824 he conveyed land to most of his children. His will, which was signed by his mark, even though he signed land deeds, was dated 15 Feb. 1840 and probated in Feb. 1847 (Bk G:329). It provided that his personal property be sold at auction and that his executors try to sell his land privately a year after his death. His step-sons, John, Branson and William Zimmerman were to receive $66.68 each. His son, Benjamin, was to receive $1,000, to be placed at interest and paid to him when he became 21, in addition to his share from the sale of personal property. The remainder was to be divided between his other eight children, after deducting specified sums already given them (presumably in the form of land). 8 ch. by 1st wife + 1 by 2nd wife:

Daniel came to Bot. Co. about the same time as his parents. He acquired 100 acres of land on Glade Creek from Frederick Schwartz 3 Aug. 1810 (Bk 10:310). His father conveyed to him 100 acres on Glade Creek 9 Oct. 1798 (Bk 6:569). The grantor index indicates that the conveyance was to David Kessler, but the grantee index shows Daniel. A careful examination of the record shows that the conveyance was to Daniel. This is confirmed by the Surveyor's books, which shows that Johannes divided the land among three sons: Daniel, Benjamin and Abraham. On 20 Feb. 1815 Daniel conveyed this 100-acre tract to his son, Abraham. Daniel was the only one of Johannes' sons to go out from the Blue Ridge, leaving in the fall of 1820 for the very sparsely settled Sangamon Co. IL. The first settler had been there only two years. Prior to leaving, Daniel, Abraham and their wives conveyed 38 acres of this land to Benjamin Kessler on 27 Sept. 1820. Daniel was the first blacksmith in Auburn township. He was also a farmer. On 9 Jan. 1824 he acquired from the federal government three 80-acre tracts of land in Secs. 14, 27 and 28 of Auburn Twp. at $1.25 an acre, or a total of $300. Two of the tracts are just north of the present village of Thayer and the other is two miles southeast of Auburn. Catherine's accounting as administrator of Daniel's estate (Sang. Co. Probate file 48) shows $0.25 paid for a coffin, $4 for schooling, $2 for coffee for family, $.50 for a debt due Dempsey Gattin, $1.50 paid to crier at sale, $12 for her personal attention in taking charge of the two children, for a total of $20.25 plus "to amount of deficit in value of horse" $15. Although Daniel had four grandsons, he has no living descendants with the Kessler name.

Phoebe's tombstone is one of the oldest in Glade Creek Cem., but is still quite legible. It has ornate scrolling on the back side.

Catherine was dau. of Jacob Black. She was appointed guardian for her minor children, Polly and Daniel, by the Sang. Co. Court 20 July 1829, with Jacob Black, Jr. and Simeon Vancil signing a guardianship bond, which she attested by her mark. She m.2 Sangamon Co. 20 Mar. 1832 John Kotsner (also spelled Cosner). She surrendered guardianship of the children to Jacob Black 31 Mar. 1836. In the 1850 census she appears as Catherine Kessler, age 49, with Daniel, 24, and Elizabeth Kessler, 17. There is a census-taker's error here, as her name was then Kotsner. If Elizabeth were her daughter, her name should be Kotsner also. John Kotsner is not in the 1850 census. No other record of Elizabeth under either the Kessler or Kotsner name has been found. A Catherine Kessler was a charter member of the Auburn Presbyterian Church in 1854. Since there was no other Catherine Kessler in Auburn then, she apparently went by the Kessler name, although Kotsner is on her tombstone. 2 ch. by 1st wife + 2 by 2nd wife:

Abraham was a farmer. On 17 Feb. 1824 he acquired from the federal government 80 acres in Sec. 12, a mile east of Auburn, at the standard price of $1.25 an acre. In 1827, 1833 and 1835 he acquired an additional 160 acres just east of his original purchase. He was also on the 1835 tax rolls for 2/3 of 240 acres in Sec. 14, of Auburn Twp., with his mother taxed for the other 1/3, so he apparently acquired his brother's and sister's interests in his father's estate. He left no will, but an inventory of his estate totalling $309.50 was made 21 June 1843. It consisted mainly of farm equipment and

CHRISTIAN KESSLER, ASSUMED SON OF JOHANNES

4 CHRISTIAN KESSLER, assumed son of Johannes and Dorothea, b. ca 1768 prob. Frederick Co. MD; d. ca 1739 prob. Botetourt Co. VA; m. Bot. Co. 26 Oct. 1793 MARY CLARE (or Clear), b. 1775-6 Bot. Co.; d. after 1850.

Christian is said by early family historians to be the son of Johannes, but in spite of a thorough search of Bot. Co. records, no proof can be found. A possible proof, depending upon one's interpretation of the document, exists in the records of Pulaski Co. KY regarding the estate of Christian's brother-in-law, Francis Clare, who died, unmarried, in 1814 while serving in the War of 1812. It reads in part: "Thomas Clare, George Clare, Allen Clare, Benjamin Kesler and Christian Kesler being whole brothers and having married full sisters of the aforementioned Francis Clare do obligate and mutually bind themselves in the sum of one thousand dollars. Each do give and allow our half brothers Daniel Clare and Jacob Clare an equal share and portion of all property which Francis Clare possessed." The term "whole brothers" cannot possibly apply to all of the five named men. It is certainly correct for the three Clare men. For purposes of this agreement, however, any relationship between Benjamin and Christian Kessler is irrrelevant, since at that time the husband received any property inherited from his wife's relatives. Hence, this ambiguous phrase may mean merely that the five men all have the status of a whole, rather than a half relationship to Francis, but they all agreed that the two half-brothers should share equally with them. Consequently, saying that this proves that Benjamin and Christian were brothers may be taking the language out of context. The word "whole" would have been unnecessary if the person drafting the document merely wished to add, gratuitously, that brothers had married sisters. In light of the educational level in Ky. in 1814, either interpretation may be correct. Johannes could have solved the problem for us if he had just included Christian in his land division. The fact that he did not is the strongest reason for saying Christian might not be his son. We know that Christian lived close to Johannes, while John, Jr., the only proven son who did not receive any land from Johannes, lived some distnce away. Christian was a charter member of the Glade Creek Evangelical Church, as were Benjamin and Abraham, the sons receiving land from Johannes who were still in Bot. Co. at the time the church was founded. (Daniel had migrated to Ill. and died.) However, Christian does not appear on the lists of communicants of the church in 1829 through 1833, nor does his wife.

Christian apparently did not prosper financially. The only land of record he owned was 50 acres from George Clare's estate, consisting of Mary's share and the shares of two brothers, which they acquired. It was sold to George Cook in 1813 for $500 (Bk 11:96). They probably moved across the line to Bedford Co. at that time, as Christian is mentioned in a minor way in Bdf. Co. court records in 1815, but he did not acquire property there. He was back in Bot. Co. for the 1820 and 1830 censuses, but evidently died before the 1840 census. Tradition says he was buried in Mt. Union Cem., which is covered with boxwoods, but there is no record of his tombstone having been read, and it cannot be found. He left no will, and there are no probate records.

Mary was dau. of George Clear by his first wife, whose maiden name is unknown, but tradition in the Clare family says it was Cox. George died before Mary was married, and "consent" was given by her step-mother, Susannah Clare (#A), who was also the bridegroom's sister and only known dau. of Johannes Kesler. Two years later Mary's sister, Margaret, married Benjamin Kessler (#5). This intermarriage of Kesslers and Clares, who lived next to each other, strengthens the assumption that Christian was the son of Johannes. Mary was living with her dau. Mary and William St. Clair in 1850, her age being given as 74. From census records, it appears they had at least 13 ch:

BENJAMIN KESSLER, SON OF JOHANNES

5 BENjamin KESSLER, s. of Johannes and Dorothea, b. 18 Oct. 1772 Frederick Co. MD; d. 22 Oct. 1839 Bot. Co.; bur. Glade Creek Cem.; m. Bot. Co. 19 Nov. 1795 MARGARET CLARE, b. 14 Aug. 1776 Bot. Co.; d. Apr. 1857 Bot. Co.; prob. bur. Glade Creek Cem., though there is no marker for her.

Ben came to Bot. Co. as a young man, about 1790, a few years after his brother John, Jr., had settled there. The first land he acquired was a lot in Howrytown 1 June 1795 (Bk 5:273) where his name looks like "Perriman" Kessler or "Sessler." He appeared on the tax roll of Greensville (Howrytown) in 1797. As already referred to in the account of Johannes, his father conveyed 190 acres to him on 12 Mar. 1806, thus proving that Johannes was his father. He continued to acquire land "on the waters" of Glade Creek, buying 81 acres in 1811 (Bk 10:325) and 174 acres in 1815 (Bk 11:549). In 1820 he acquired 38 acres of land from his brother, Daniel (#3) and his son, Abraham (#31), just prior to their going out from the Blue Ridge for Illinois. Two of Ben's sons were to follow in a few years, and the two youngest sons would be heading for the Prairie State much later on. At the time of his death Ben owned 827 acres of land, which, according to his will, (Bk F: 207-11) was divided into 8 parcels, as shown below, by four commissioners. There are 58 boundary points on the large tract of 705 acres, designated by stakes, trees and saplings. Black, white, red and Spanish oaks, hickory, pine, sourwood, sycamore, sassafras, cherry, apple, persimmon, locust, gum and chestnut are all mentioned. One may wonder how these points could be located when the saplings grew to maturity and the old trees died. The tract on which the house stood was assigned to his widow, and all surviving children received land except Benjamin, Jr. (who had gone to Ill.) and Susan. We can only speculate why she did not receive any land. Her husband was 47 at the time, and perhaps he had all the land he needed and preferred cash. Each of the 10 children received or made payments so that all shares had an identical value of $640.84. The widow's dower land was valued at $2530--not quite 1/3 of the total estate.

DAVID KESSLER, ASSUMED SON OF JOHANNES

6 DAVID KESSLER, assumed son of Johannes and Dorothea, b. 1775 prob. Frederick Co. MD; d. after 1850; m. Bot. Co. 15 Apr. 1792 Sarah (SALLY) COX, d. bef. 1850.

We have no proof that David was the son of Johannes, though tradition has included him among the sons. He seems to have lived near Johannes, and he named his first daughter Eve Dorothy, which was Johannes' wife's name. The records of David are almost non-existent. He appears in the 1810-30 censuses, from which it appears that he had at least 4 sons and 5 daughters, but we have not been able to positively identify any of the sons. Three daughters are proven, as their marriage records list him as the father. He is not in the 1840 census, but was living with his daughter, Elizabeth Merrill, in 1850, and prob. died shortly thereafter. He appears on Bot. Co. personal property tax rolls nearly every year from 1791-1844. (We have not checked later lists.) In the early years in particular, he was listed near Johannes, Ben, Daniel and Christian, indicating he was probably in the Glade Creek area, and therefore likely to be the son of Johannes. In 1819-29 there were usually two or three males over 16 in his household, indicating that at least three sons lived to be grown. In 1826-29 there was a Daniel Kessler close to him. We think this is Daniel C. Kessler, since all the other known Daniels are accounted for elsewhere. In 1828 the middle initials were used for Daniel H. (#71) and Daniel Y. (#22), thus eliminating them as the Daniel living near David. The only other Daniel in Bot. Co. that year was #14, who was living close to his mother, Elizabeth. Through this process of elimination, we assume that Daniel C. is one of the four sons of David. Another son is prob. Elijah (#6?2), for reasons stated under his account. A possible son is William Cox Kessler (#4?3), since David's wife was a Cox. However, tradition in William C. Kessler's family says he was the son of Christian (whose mother-in-law's maiden name was said to be Cox), and we have shown him as an assumed son of Christian. David H., born ca 1810, who left Bot. Co., could be another son. (See Appendix.)

The only time David appears in the Bot. Co. land records is in 1795, when he contracted to buy (or rent) from Jacob Howry Lot 27 in Howrytown, at the head of Looney Creek, for 20 shillings for the first year and 3 shillings for each year forever (Bk 5:273). He conveyed that interest to Jacob Danner in 1797. His name appears in the Grantor Index as the grantee of land from Johannes Kesler (Bk 6:569), but the Grantee Index shows that Daniel Kessler was the grantee. An examination of page 569 shows that the name has been slightly altered in some places, but it is clearly Daniel in others. The Surveyor's record book for the same division of land shows Daniel as the recipient. Since David owned no land, there was no probate of his estate, and hence no record of his children can be found.

Sally was dau. of Alan Cox, as indicated in her marriage record. At least 9 ch:

ABRAHAM KESSLER, SON OF JOHANNES

7 Abraham Kessler, s. of Johannes and Dorothea, b. 25 Jan. 1778 Frederick Co. MD; d. 8 June 1857 Bot. Co. VA; bur. Laymantown Cem.; m. Bot. Co. 20 Oct. 1800 Catherine (CATEY) HEPLER, b. 17 Dec. 1781 Md. or Pa.; d. from rheumatism 16 Oct. 1861 Bot. Co.; bur. Laymantown Cem.

Abraham was 13 when his parents left Maryland for Botetourt Co. Va., so he was already helping on the farm. He continued this occupation throughout his life. For a period of time, at least, he also ran a tavern, as the Bot. Co. Order Book for 1823-25 lists the name of Abraham Kessler as one who had been licensed to operate a tavern. This secondary occupation probably continued a number of years, for in the settlement of his estate two stills were offered for sale. Liquor was undoubtedly sold in his tavern, since one still would have produced enough for his personal needs.

Abraham acquired considerable property during his lifetime. The first of record is 141 acres on Glade Creek, deeded to him by his father 12 Mar. 1806. This proves that he was the son of Johannes. In 1811 he acquired 20 acres on Glade Creek from Jacob and Barbara Cook. By 1834 he owned 320 acres on Glade Creek, which was combined into a single survey. In 1846 he conveyed about a quarter of an acre on Welch's Run of Glade Creek for "a public burying ground as now enclosed." This was the original Glade Creek Cemetery, which we believe was part of the land received from his father, thus indicating that Johannes and Dorothea were buried on their farm.

The personal property tax records show that Abraham owned from one to three slaves from 1829 until his death. In the inventory of his estate, a slave, Rebecca, was listed as an expense rather than an asset. Apparently he could not turn out the aged and infirmed. In his will he expressed a desire that "my negroes shall be freed." This did not happen immediately, as the records of the Glade Creek Evanagelical Lutheran Church show among "colored members" Rebecca and Charlot, who belonged to Widow Catherine Kessler. Abraham was a charter member of the church in 1828. His wife probably was too, although no women were listed as charter members. Her name appears on the records in 1830.

His will was dated 18 Oct. 1856 and recorded in July 1857 (Book K:100). The estate was not settled until 1871, after the death of his widow. The inscription on his tombstone reads: "Remember friends, as you pass by That all mankind was born to die So let your cares on Christ be cast That you may dwell with him at last."

Catey was dau. of George Hepler. 5 ch:

DANIEL H. KESLER, SON OF ABRAHAM

71 DANIEL H. KESLER, s. of Abraham and Catey, b. 16 Feb. 1805 Bot. Co.; d. 14 July 1886 Summers Co. WV; m.1 Bot. Co. 5 Apr. 1827 LUCINDA CRAFT, b. 23 July 1803 Bot. Co.; d. 30 Dec. 1868 Summers Co.; bur. Pisgah Cem.; m.2 Bot. Co. Margaret (PEGGY) J. KESSLER Lemon (#51A), b. 17 Mar. 1826 Bot. Co.; d. 9 Dec. 1899.

We do not know Daniel's middle name, but surmise that it was Hepler. On 29 Sept. 1838 he acquired 280 acres in the Glade Creek area for $1556. He moved to Monroe Co. WV between 1856 and 1858. When Summers Co. was formed in 1871, his land was in the new county. In the 1880 census a son, Henry Kesler, aged 14, was in his household. This could not be his son, as his first wife would have been 62 when he was born. It is almost certain that Henry was his grandson (#712.2), though the age is a year too high.

Margaret was dau. of Joseph (#51) and Mary M. Kessler. They entered into a prenuptial agreement, which indicated that she had no children. 3 ch by 1st wife:

711+ Abraham (ABRAM) C. KESLER, b. 23 Feb. 1829.

SUSANNAH CLARE, DAUGHTER OF JOHANNES KESLER

A SUSANnah KESSLER, dau. of Johannes and Dorothea, b. 9 Sept. 1758 Montg. Co. PA; d. prob. Montg. Co. VA; m.1 Bot. Co. VA 10 July 1787 GEORGE CLARE, b. 1738; d. Apr. 1790 Bot. Co.; m.2 Bot. Co. 21 Apr. 1798 JACOB HOWRY, d. ca 1809.

Susan was baptized as "Susanna Kessler" at the Augustus Evangelical Lutheran Church, Trappe PA, on 22 Oct. 1758 as daughter of Johannes and Dorothea Kessler. The sponsor was Susanna Jungling, wife of Christian. Susan gave the consent for her step-daughters, Mary and Margaret, to marry Christian Kessler (#4) and Benjamin Kessler (#5), since her husband was deceased before his daughters married. We know that Benjamin was her brother, and we think Christian was also. Some of her family moved near the New River in Montg. Co., and most members of her family migrated to Pulaski Co. KY, but she probably never left Va.

George's name has been spelled Clare, Clear or Clair. Family tradition says he came to America in 1750, laid out the town of Fincastle and was one of its first trustees. However, we have not been able to find any such records in the early history of Fincastle, and therefore we doubt that this is correct. The same family tradition said he came from Holland, which is highly unlikely. Many people think the "Deutsch" came from Holland, whereas the word means " German." Since the earliest settlers of Fincastle were Scotch, Irish or English, and Clare is definitely an English name, he probably originated in the British Isles, rather than in Germany. The German settlers did not arrive in Bot. Co. until the time of the Revolution. Family tradition also says his first wife's maiden name was Cox, but again no verification has been found. She was probably still alive in 1785, when he was taxed for 9 people in his household (and they had 7 children). He was taxed for 83 acres of land in Capt. May's Co. 1781-86. He owned 130 acres of land adjoining Johannes Kesler, which was valued in his estate at 1 pound per acre. Christian and Mary Kessler (#4) acquired 1/9 of the 130 acres from Thomas Clear 12 Oct. 1802 and also acquired Allen Clare's share. They gave a deed for this 50 acres of land to George Cook in 1813, stating the land had been acquired from the heirs of George Clear by deed dated 28 Mar. 1795 (Deed Bk 11:96). Johannes Kesler included the entire 130 acres in a survey of 590 acres dated 27 June 1806. Seventy acres of this land was sold by the remaining six heirs to Charles and George Cook, but since title papers to the land could not be found, Johannes gave the Cooks a deed 11 May 1822 (Deed Bk 15:295-7). George's estate was inventoried 4 Sept. 1790. In addition to the land, livestock and farming tools, he owned wheelwright tools and shoemaker's tools (Will Bk A:289-90). In addition to the two daughters mentioned above, George had 5 sons by his first wife: Thomas, John, Francis (Frank), George, Jr., and Allen. On 21 Feb. 1797 Daniel Kesler (presumably #3) was appointed guardian of the latter two, plus Susan's two sons.

Jacob Howry laid out and sold lots in Howrytown, but the town never developed. He had several children by a previous marriage, but since Susan was nearly 40 when they were married, they appareently had no children. By George Clare she had 2 ch:

DANIEL CLARE, SON OF SUSANNAH KESSLER CLARE

A2 DANIEL CLARE, s. of George and Susan, b. 10 Feb. 1790 Bot. Co.; d. 25 Aug. 1843 Lincoln Co. MO; bur. Clare Cem., Silex MO; m.1 Somerset KY 1815 JANE HANSFORD, b. 15 Aug. 1792 Somerset; d. 7 June 1835 Lincoln Co. MO; bur. Clare Cem.; m.2 FRANCES McClure COX, b. 19 Aug. 1789; d. 1890 Lincoln Co. MO; bur. Clare Cem.

Daniel left Bot. Co. with his half brothers, Thomas, Allen and Frank, for Somerset, Pulaski Co. KY. The date was prob. before 1810 as they are not in the 1810 Bot. Co. census. Frank and Daniel built a tan yard in Somerset, which they operated until they both enlisted during the War of 1812. Frank was killed in the Battle of Thames. Between 1824 and 1828 Daniel moved his family to Lincoln Co. MO, and he acquired a large amount of land in Lincoln and Montgomery Cos. He never lived on any of the Montg. Co. land, but received it for his service during the War of 1812. In his will, dated 20 Aug. 1843 and signed by his mark, his wife was to have all the goods and household furniture she brought with her when they were married, plus part of what she since made, if desired, together with a horse and saddle and the whole amount of money she brought, together with interest. The land on which he lived was to be sold at a convenient time and manner, as agreed upon between his wife and son Francis, the executor, for the purpose of raising funds specified in the will and for educating his younger children. Specific tracts of land were given to each child. His slaves were to be hired or disposed of in any way that Francis thought proper, and at the last division, they were to be allowed to choose their masters among his children and to be valued to whomsoever they were allotted to go.

Notes:

Johannes Kessler

Out from the Blue Ridge by Morris S. Kessler and Rev. A. Dean Kesler,1984: "We do not know where Johannes was born. He spoke German, so we assume he grew up in Germany or the German portion of Switzerland. The Palatine region of the Rhine Valley is his most likely birthplace, since it was the area from which most of the German-speaking immigrants to Pennsylvania came. The Protestant Reformation had also been most successful here, and we know that Johannes was a member of the Lutheran Church."

Walter

Walter Maxey, a son of Edward and Susannah ( ) Maxey, had no original patent land of his own but, by the terms of his father's will, received after the death of his mother one-half of the Virginia plantation on which they lived in Goochland County (later Cumberland County). In 1748 his brother Sylvanus, who had moved over to Albemarle Co., Va., deeded the remaining 200 acres of the patent to Walter.[1] He lived on this land until 10 December 1762 when it was sold to Creed Haskins for 390 pounds.[2] This important deed reads, in part, as follows:

> ...400 acres of land...on the South side of James River...beginning at a corner white oak of John Radfords land on Jones' Creek thence South 100 chains to a corner black oak in a bottom of Fighting Creek thence East 160 chains to an oak thence North 100 chains to a corner oak on Radfords line thence on Radfords line 160 chains to the beginning it being a tract of land granted Edward Maxey by Patent bearing date of 17th day of August 1725 and left to be divided between Walter Maxey...and Sylvanus Maxey by the last will & testament of Edward Maxey bearing date the 18th day of April 1737 Sylvanus Maxey's part conveyed to Walter Maxey ...by deed bearing date the 12th April 1748.

Walter then moved with his family to that part of Bedford Co., Va., which in 1785 became the county of Franklin. The terrain in this area of Virginia is quite different from the original Maxey settlement on relatively flat country west of Richmond, the former being rocky and mountainous and quite verdant, reminding the compiler somewhat of the Welsh countryside. Walter purchased from Samuel and Grizel Smith 528 acres on the west side of the Staunton River and the north side of the Blackwater River for which he paid 420 pounds in two separate transactions on 20 August 1763.[3]

Walter was the last surviving child of Edward and Susannah and without question left the largest number of descendants, many of whom still reside in the area. The original copy of his will (text follows this sketch) as well as other records relating to the probate of his estate are still on file at the courthouse in Rocky Mount.[4] An amusing item in one of the accounts of executor Jeremiah Maxey in 1798 was a charge for a quart of whiskey "for the use of my mother." The children mentioned in Walter's will were Josiah, Jesse, Walter, Jeremiah, Lucy Cowden, Mary Adde, Susannah Syllivan(t), Jane Craghead (dec'd.) and Esther Camp(Kemp).

On 8 May 1798, seven years after the death of Walter and perhaps right after his widow's decease, a suit was brought into court by the children and heirs of Walter in order that a commissioner be appointed to dispose of 130 acres on the Staunton River owned by Walter at his death.[5] A settlement of Walter's estate was further complicated by the fact that Josiah, a son, had died two years after his father, leaving a large family. In 1799 commissioners appointed by the court -- Jeremiah Maxey, John Craghead (husband of Jane Maxey), and Thomas Kemp (husband of Esther Maxey) -- sold the above 130 acres to Thomas Leftwich for 400 pounds, and the proceeds were then distributed to the heirs.[6]

We have nothing to corroborate some earlier genealogists' claims that Walter had more than one wife. We note that the name of his wife in 1763 (when she relinquished her right of dower to the land in Cumberland County) was Mary; that was also the name of his wife when he wrote his will in 1791.

The following letter appeared in the Maxey Family Reunion Bulletin in 1961 written by Mae A. Maxey of Hardy (later Vinton), Va., now deceased:

"The Maxey Cemetery containing the [unmarked] graves of Wal- Maxey, Sr., who died in 1791 and near kin...is located on the old Maxey plantation on a sloping hillside overlooking Blackwater River in Franklin Co., Virginia. Their remains are to be removed and reinterred on a plot at Mt. Ivy Baptist Church which is a very fitting location as it is in the general vicinity in which they lived and died and also more accessible to travel. Their peaceful slumbers are being interrupted by the rising waters of Smith Mountain Lake formed by a dam that is being constructed a few miles below by Appalachian Power Company. All expense of plot, removal and reinterment is being taken care of by the Power Company. Descendants of this brave and courageous tribe of Maxeys are scattered in many states now and a few in foreign countries."

82449. JOHN W. MAXEY
(1851-1926)

John William Maxey, a son of Josiah and Mary (Shrewsbury) Maxey, was born on 13 October 1851, in Mercer Co., Va. He was enumerated in his parents' household in that county when the 1860 and 1870 censuses were taken.

On 15 December 1878 John married Nancy Jane Meadows (born 3 March 1859). They were living on the farm of John's father in 1880, in the Rock District of Mercer County. (In 1863 Mercer County was embraced by the new state of West Virginia.)

In the division of the estate of his father, John received 103 acres next to his mother's dower land.[1]

John died on 7 January 1926, and Nancy Jane died on 30 October 1948. They are buried in the Maxey Cemetery on Corn Bread Ridge near Spanishburg along with their children Mary Ella, Edward and Samuel Clyde.

Son Clyde and his wife Elizabeth had the following children: Nancy Jane, who married Theodore Wieciech; John William; Roxie Lucille, who married Roger Thompson; Lois Ann, who married Donald E. Rosenow; Harriet Eunice, who married Billy Gene Doel; and Laura Elizabeth.[2] Elizabeth and her son John were very active in the Maxey Family Association which met for many years in Spanishburg, W.Va., and Roanoke, Va.

Children of John W. and Nancy J. (Meadows) Maxey:

824491. MARY ELLA MAXEY, b.7 July 1882, Mercer Co., W.Va.; d.7 Dec. 1964; m. John Harvey Lilly (b.10 Sept. 1875; d.9 Jan. 1954), on 10 Oct. 1906, Mercer Co., W.Va.

824492. EDWARD MAXEY, b.6 June 1884, Mercer Co., W.Va.; d.20 May 1971; m. Mary A. Quesenberry, 11 Aug. 1909, Mercer Co., W.Va.

824493. ARIC MAXEY, b.14 Sept. 1888, Mercer Co., W.Va.; d.8 Feb. 1969; m. Lou T. Moye, 24 Apr. 1910, Mercer Co., W.Va.

824494. SAMUEL CLYDE MAXEY, b.22 Feb. 1896, Mercer Co., W.Va.; d.26 July 1968, Mercer Co., W.Va.; m. Elizabeth Jane Young (b.15 May 1906, New Hope, W.Va.), d/o Winfield McClellen & Roxie (Bailey) Young, on 24 Dec. 1928.

827. JOSIAH MAXEY, JR.
(1781-18)

Josiah Maxey, Jr., a son of Josiah and Phebe ( ) Maxey, was born about 1781 in Bedford Co., Va. He was listed in the personal property tax records of Franklin Co., Va., from 1802 through 1804, from 1817 through 1820, and in 1840, 1841, 1847 and 1848.

Josiah married Elizabeth Ferguson, a daughter of Jeremiah and Jemima Ferguson, on 3 November 1810, in Franklin County. He served as a private in Capt. William Lane's Company, 5th Regiment of Virginia Militia from 10 March to 29 June 1814.

On 18 November 1833 Josiah, like his brothers, sold to

Thomas Dudley for $75, his right, interest and claim to the land which he held as a legatee in the estate of Josiah Maxey (Sr.), deceased, and Phebe Maxey.[1]

Josiah left Virginia for awhile and was located in the 1830 census of Pulaski Co., Ky., where his brothers Walter and Boze had married many years earlier. As mentioned above, Josiah was found in the personal property tax records of Franklin Co., Va., in 1840 and 1841, but Elizabeth was recorded as head of household in the 1840 census of Pulaski Co., Ky. It would appear that they were divorced, or in any case separated.

Elizabeth had been identified as a daughter in Jeremiah Ferguson's will dated 19 November 1828 and proved by witnesses on 26 January 1829. It provided that after his wife's death his property was to be divided among his children.[2] Elizabeth Maxey's brief will, dated 1 August 1842, made mention of her father's will and of her mother Jemima's recent death. Elizabeth appointed Christopher Hail (Hale) to act on her behalf for the benefit of her children (not named) and to collect and divide among them anything that was due her from her father's estate.[3] Elizabeth's daughter Jemima administered her mother's estate and was the main purchaser at the sale of her personal property held on 31 May 1843.[4]

It was noted that Josiah, age 70, was living alone in Franklin Co., Va., when the 1850 census was taken. When Josiah appeared at the Franklin County courthouse in 1850 to apply for the bounty land due him for his service during the War of 1812, he gave his age as 65. Yet in 1855 when he applied for additional bounty land under the new act, he stated his age was 72.

Josiah and Elizabeth seem to have had three sons and two daughters, based on the early census reports, but they have not all been proved due to the fact that there was also a Sarah Maxey (relationship not known) living in Pulaski County from 1830 who had children. Thus the multiplicity of Maxeys there frustrates identification.

Known children of Josiah and Elizabeth (Ferguson) Maxey:

\+ 8271. JEREMIAH MAXEY, b. ca.1826; d. ca.1850, Pulaski Co., Ky.

8271. JEREMIAH MAXEY
(1826-1850)

Jeremiah (Jerry) Maxey, a son of Josiah and Elizabeth (Ferguson) Maxey, was born about 1826, probably in Pulaski Co., Ky., where his father was located as head of household in the 1830 census.

On 12 September 1844, in Pulaski County, he married Eliza Jane Baker, a daughter of James and Jenny Baker.

Jeremiah enlisted in the army on 8 November 1847, in Somer-

> ...400 acres of land...on the South side of James River...beginning at a corner white oak of John Radfords land on Jones' Creek thence South 100 chains to a corner black oak in a bottom of Fighting Creek thence East 160 chains to an oak thence North 100 chains to a corner oak on Radfords line thence on Radfords line 160 chains to the beginning it being a tract of land granted Edward Maxey by Patent bearing date of 17th day of August 1725 and left to be divided between Walter Maxey...and Sylvanus Maxey by the last will & testament of Edward Maxey bearing date the 18th day of April 1737 Sylvanus Maxey's part conveyed to Walter Maxey ...by deed bearing date the 12th April 1748.

Walter then moved with his family to that part of Bedford Co., Va., which in 1785 became the county of Franklin. The terrain in this area of Virginia is quite different from the original Maxey settlement on relatively flat country west of Richmond, the former being rocky and mountainous and quite verdant, reminding the compiler somewhat of the Welsh countryside. The children mentioned in Walter's will were Josiah, Jesse, Walter, Jeremiah, Lucy Cowden, Mary Adde, Susannah Syllivan(t), Jane Craghead (dec'd.) and Esther Camp(Kemp).

On 8 May 1798, seven years after the death of Walter and perhaps right after his widow's decease, a suit was brought into court by the children and heirs of Walter in order that a commissioner be appointed to dispose of 130 acres on the Staunton River owned by Walter at his death.[5] A settlement of Walter's estate was further complicated by the fact that Josiah, a son, had died two years after his father, leaving a large family. We have nothing to corroborate some earlier genealogists' claims that Walter had more than one wife. We note that the name of his wife in 1763 (when she relinquished her right of dower to the land in Cumberland County) was Mary; that was also the name of his wife when he wrote his will in 1791.
